FOREIGN MED GRADUATES CAN FINISH INTERNSHIPS IN INDIA

Those with incomplete internships due to war or Covid can finish them in India, the National Medical Commission said

A BOON TO UKRAINE RETURNEES

The decision will benefit medical graduates returning from Ukraine. "Considering the agony and stress faced by these foreign medical graduates, their application to complete the remaining part of an internship in India is considered eligible," the NMC said. But, they must clear the Foreign Medical Graduate Examination before applying for completion of the internship

COLLEGES MUST NOT CHARGE ANY FEE

- The commission said state medical councils may also process applications. They must obtain an undertaking from medical colleges that no fee is charged from foreign medical graduates
- Besides, all benefits enjoyed by Indian graduates at government colleges, like stipend, should be extended to foreign graduates

MEA tells students not to take risks; over 3K brought back to India on Saturday

INDIA PRESSES FOR CEASEFIRE IN SUMY AS PANIC SETS IN

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

WITH desperation growing among Indians stuck in Ukraine as Russia's bombings continue relentlessly despite New Delhi's fervent appeals for a ceasefire to evacuate its citizens, the Ministry of External Affairs said on Saturday it is deeply concerned about the safety of around 700 students stranded in Sumy.

India is working hard to get its citizens out of conflict zones and the priority is to evacuate those in Sumy, MEA spokesman Arindam Bagchi said. "Have strongly pressed Russian and Ukrainian governments through multiple channels for an immediate ceasefire to create a safe corridor for students," he said.

The remarks came in the wake of reports of a group of desperate students, worried about running out of essentials before a government-led evacuation would be possible, deciding to proceed on their own to the Russian border braving the torrential shelling. Triggering alarm bells in New Delhi, they posted a video saying, "We are afraid, we have waited a lot and we cannot wait anymore. We are risking our lives and moving towards the border."

Another student said it is hard to stay in bunkers in harsh weather and if evacuation is delayed, students may face health issues. "The embassy says buses and food are waiting for us on Russian border but we are unable to reach there due to heavy shelling," he said.

The students later decided to go back to their shelters after the MEA assured them efforts were on to rescue them. "Have advised our students to take safety precautions, stay inside shelters and avoid unnecessary risks," Bagchi said.

Meanwhile, the civil aviation ministry said 11 flights with more than 2,200 Indian evacuees will operate from Ukraine's neighbouring countries to India on Sunday.

About 3,000 Indians were airlifted on 15 flights to India on Saturday, the ministry's statement noted. MORE ON: P9,11

Russia broke truce deal: Ukraine

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

RUSSIA on Saturday offered to allow safe passage to civilians fleeing from the conflict zones of Mariupol and Volnovakha by observing a ceasefire in the two cities. However, soon afterwards, Ukraine claimed it was forced to halt rescue operations as Russia continued to bomb the mutually agreed evacuation routes.

Mariupol had been under continuous brutal assault, which knocked out power, food and water supplies. A larger tragedy may be unfolding as pharmacies are out of medicines, Doctors Without Borders said.

Meanwhile, Zelenskyy stepped up his demand that NATO declare a no-fly zone over Ukraine. Frustrated by the organisation's refusal to agree to his demand, he said, "All the people who die from this day forward will also die because of you."

Enforcing a no-fly zone would mean NATO forces will have to shoot down Russian planes entering Ukrainian airspace, thus entering into a direct conflict with Moscow.

The war, which entered its 10th day on Saturday, has killed about 351 civilians and forced nearly 1.5 million people to flee the country, according to the UN.

Russian President Vladimir Putin on Saturday warned the NATO that any attempts to impose a no-fly zone over Ukraine would tantamount to "participation in the armed conflict"

Shekhawat: Union govt can't solve Mekedatu row

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

A day after Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai announced Rs 1,000 crore for the Mekedatu reservoir project, Union Jal Shakti Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat on Saturday said the Union government cannot resolve the contentious issue as water is a state subject. A solution can be found only when parties involved sit across the table and hammer out a solution. "We can only facilitate and we are ready to do that," said Shekhawat, who was in Bengaluru to review Jal Jeevan scheme implementation.

"Though it is a subject of concern, I cannot talk much as the issue is before the court. I hope and wish that both Karnataka and Tamil Nadu will resolve it, like how Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh did it. The two states have now agreed to connect Ken and Betwa rivers in Madhya Pradesh and Uttar Pradesh. Any issue can be resolved if talks are held," he said. Asked further, the minister said he too wished that the Mekedatu project sees the light of day. "The Centre can only facilitate and help technically, and for that, both states have to come forward," he said. Asked whether the Union government is going to facilitate such a meeting, he said it depends on both states. "We are ready to help them in all possible manner."

On the recent Padayatra taken out by the opposition Congress demanding the implementation of the project, Shekawat said Congress was in power for over 55 years. "They did not do their job properly and that is why such problems exist in the country. Congress was in power when the Constitution came into force, but no provision was made for interstate water disputes. They did not have the vision and that is why all the states are involved in water disputes. They have no moral right to question BJP. The BJP government has resolved many issues and will resolve many more. Only a BJP government can resolve the Mekedatu issue too," he said. P4

BBMP shuts cafe, honchos turn up heat

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

THERE was much frothing and calls for BBMP babus to wake up and smell the coffee, as they sealed, albeit briefly, a popular, niche cafe in upmarket Indiranagar over garbage handling and other compliance issues.

Top business honchos of Bengaluru came out all guns blazing in support of Araku Coffee, which was locked up by BBMP health officials and marshals.

Justifying the action, a BBMP health official, who was part of the inspection, said, "When we went on rounds around 10.30 am on Saturday, we found many violations. The cafe was using banned plastic, had thrown garbage in plastic bags and their trade licence did not have permission to use the high-voltage power that was being utilised. We sealed the cafe as per the BBMP solid waste management rules and disaster management Act. A notice was also served."

But as the day progressed, the cafe threw its doors open for guests. Even as cafe owners refused to comment, their spokesperson told TNSE, "It was a misunderstanding of 15 minutes, which has now been resolved." P2

A handful of artisans in the hill district still produce the Dudi (a small drum) at a time when globalisation is slowly killing the art of making these musical instruments

Artisans buy the hide from meat shops for approximately ₹ 350/piece

Old-time artisans who put in a lot of effort to make Dudis charge between ₹ 500 & ₹ 700 for a Dudi and they also receive orders to repair the old ones.

CUSTODIANS OF THE KODAGU DRUM

PRAJNA GR @Madikeri (Kodagu district)

RUSTIC and rhythmic sounds resonate in the air in Kodagu district when Kodavas observe special occasions. These rustic sounds are from the traditional drum called the 'Dudi'. With a metal base and the batter head made of animal hide, Dudi holds a special place in the rituals practised by the Kodavas.

While the traditional Dudis still hold a great significance among the community, the art of making Dudis is slowly dying. Today, only a handful of artisans are creating this unique instrument. Nonagenarian Subbaiah U is one of them. Elaborating on how he makes Dudis, Subbaiah says, "In the past, I used to make Dudis from the skin of muccha (lion-tailed macaques). As hunting of macaques is prohibited by law now, I use goatskin."

First, artisans buy the hide from meat shops for approximately Rs 350 a piece and then the tedious and intricate process of making the drum begins.

"The first tough job is removing hair from the goatskin. One cannot use blades as it can damage the skin. We rub the skin on a hard surface, like stones, to remove the hair and then cut it to the size of the base. We need two skins to make a Dudi," explains 65-year-old KA Ganapathi, another artisan who has been making Dudi for nearly three decades now.

Going back to the myth and origin of Dudi, historian Bacharaniyanda Appanna says, "In the past, forest dwellers created the instrument for entertainment. It is said that they wanted to imitate the sound of the woodpecker that resonates in the forest." Dudis were earlier made using hollow tree barks for the base and lion-tailed macaque's skin for the resonating heads. Ropes made from natural plant fibres were twisted around the drum and canes were used to imitate the sound of the woodpecker. Gradually, bronze replaced the wood for the base and goatskin for the head. "Now, not many work with bronze and workers who can repair bronze material are also rare. While we fix the resonating heads of old bronze bases, the new ones are created using brass," he explains.

The cleaned goat skin is first soaked in water and then placed on an hourglass-shaped metal base. It is neatly stitched (using plant fibres) around the vertical openings of the metal base and is dried under the Sun. A ring created using plant fibres is placed on top of the skin and around the metal base. They are then stitched with ropes, which were earlier plant based but are now made of nylon. The ropes are then carefully tightened around Dudi. "The two sides of the Dudi give a slightly different sound and they are differentiated as male and female sound," adds Ganapathi.

The artisans of Dudi are sought after for their special work even today, but the art may soon become extinct. Dudis are extensively used during Kodava weddings, festivals and even funerals. However, these traditional instruments are now being sourced from mass production centres.

"Many times these instruments are made from plastic and are sourced from Mysuru," confirms Appanna. The old-time artisans who put in a lot of effort to make Dudis charge between Rs 500 and Rs 700 for a Dudi and they also receive orders to repair the old ones.

Philanthropists said that these artisans should be supported to revive the dying art that contributes greatly in preserving the tribal culture.

SWIMMING AS A SERVICE

66-year-old Gangadhar G Kadekar imparts swimming lessons for free at a lake in his village in Udupi district

PRAKASH SAMAGA @ Udupi

AS the clock announces the onset of dawn one Sunday, over 15 enthusiastic early-risers converge at Devarakere, a lake near Kadekar village of Udupi district. These are students learning the skills of one of the most basic requirements for maintaining good health and increasing survivability – swimming – from Gangadhar G Kadekar. The lake, which was rejuvenated about 10 years ago, is where the 66-year-old Gangadhar imparts swimming lessons to his students, along with certain essential life skills.

Once the students arrive at the lake, they have a well-laid out routine. Irrespective of their age or background, each grabs a mop and tidies up the spacious staircase around the lake once a week and makes sure that the waterbody is clean and disinfected. And then they dive in.

Gangadhar has taught young children as well as women aged above 55. Vineesh, a Class 4 student from a school in Brahmavara has learnt swimming in just a few weeks. Rahul from Ambalapady was speech-impaired, but the 13-year-old learnt swimming from Gangadhar about four years back, while a Muslim girl who suffered from autism also learnt swimming from him. Her parents are happy as their doctor had advised them that their daughter must take up swimming to improve her condition.

A proponent of swimming as a hobby, Gangadhar says the sport helps one relax physically and mentally. "I suggest to everyone that meets me to include just an hour of swimming in their daily routine to improve their physical and mental fitness," he added.

Accordingly, Gangadhar has registered his swimming club, and named it after 'Jai Durga Swimming Club', Kadekar, Udupi. All students who want to join his classes must fill up a form. Their parents have to give an undertaking in writing that rules, regulations, and dress code of the swimming club will be followed. Gangadhar, however, does not charge anything for his swimming lessons. "After I observed that unfortunately, many youngsters are drowning in the sea in this region, I thought it best to inculcate in them swimming skills, which is a prerequisite for survival in these parts," Gangadhar told The New Sunday Express. He teaches the students with utmost dedication and commitment.

Most of his students are upbeat about their chance to learn swimming from a great coach for free, otherwise they have to cough up a monthly fee of more than Rs 3,000 at private clubs. Lavanya, a student who is employed in the Revenue Department, tells TNSE that she was able to improve her swimming skills in the lake.

Watershed moment

Interestingly, Gangadhar took to serious swimming when he was 50 years old, having set some international records thereafter. On January 24, 2021, handcuffed and legs shackled, he swam 3.5 km from Padukere in 5 hours and 35 minutes and entered the Golden Book of World Records.. He also made it to the India Book of Records by swimming 1.4 km in 73.7 minutes with his legs in the 'Padmasana' position in the sea at Padukere on January 24, 2022.

As a coach, Gangadhar trains his students in the various known styles -- freestyle, backstroke, breaststroke, and the butterfly. Training in a lake or pond is more intense and challenging, which helps students become confident swimmers. Chandra Kunder, vice president of Jai Durga Swimming Club, said that many of their students have competed at several competitions.

Gangadhar's classes are held from 6.30 am to 8.30 am, except on Fridays.

MAN OF MANY DEPTHS

Gangadhar completed his B.Com in 1979 from Milagres College, Kallianpur, and worked as an FDA in RTO

He completed his LLB from Vaikunta Baliga College of Law, Udupi, in 1984

Learning the basics of swimming in his childhood, he mastered it after turning 50

His wife, Padmavathi, a B.Com graduate, is a homemaker; his son, Manohar, is a good swimmer and football player

Budget ignored demands, say pourakarmikas

ENS @Bengaluru

Chief minister Basavaraj Bommai, in his maiden budget, announced a hardship allowance of Rs 2,000 per month for pourakarmikas which was welcomed by BBMP Pourakarmika Sangha. However, they have highlighted other issues yet to be addressed.

The announcement came following almost two years of protest by the Pourakarmika Sangha and various workers' organisation. Nirmala M, the Sangha chief, said, "This is a result of the continuous struggle by the association. We have rendered our service during the pandemic, risking our lives, and contracted the virus."

The association criticised the budget for failing to fulfill their other demands which include the introduction of pension, accident compensation, and compensation for families in the event of health crisis like Covid-19 deaths. They had also asked for a revision of their minimum wages.

STORM IN A CUP

Report sought from staffers, says BBMP chief

IMMEDIATELY after the BBMP action, Mohandas Pai, Chairman Manipal Global Education, took to Twitter and said: "Health Inspector Srinivas of BBMP has threatened Araku cafe Indiranagar Which is a CSR cafe, run for helping farmers despite having all licenses,shut down, asked them to come to his office! Pl help (sic)." Kiran Mazumdar Shaw, Biocon Chairperson, too came in support, tweeting, "That's regulatory over reach. A big attraction that is being shut down for power in the hands of petty officials? Pls help (sic)."

Another industrialist, requesting anonymity, said, "No cafe or commercial unit is closed for a mere waste management issue. Actually, some politicians and BBMP staffers went to the cafe and wanted free coffee. When they were denied, they used their power and sent the health inspector and marshals to seal the place."

Tweeting that all was well, BJP leader Anil Shetty said, "I am at Araku coffee now. Spoke to inspector Srinivas. There was a miscommunication. Its all fine now. Enjoying my meal here (sic)." BBMP Chief Health officer, East Zone, Dr Siddapaji, said, "I inspected the place and found waste management issues. I have sought an explanation from the health team. A warning has been given to Araku management." BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said that he was not fully aware of the issue. "There could be compliance issues over which a notice would have been given. I have sought a detailed report from the staffers," he added.

Laundry list is fine, give plan details too

IT is difficult to analyse the efficacy of a budget when a mere laundry list of allocations is given, without a corresponding analysis of what has changed in terms of percentage allocation to various sectors, when compared to previous years. Hence, one does not see the woods because of the trees. It would be more helpful if the Chief Minister concentrated on these aspects in his budget speech, instead of merely reading out the laundry list.

For the comprehensive development of Bengaluru under the Amruth Nagarothana scheme for infrastructure facilities, Rs 6,000 crore is to be spent over three years. One wonders if this scheme is part of the Master Plan for Bengaluru, and have the projects been decided upon as per the physical and social infrastructure gaps prevailing in the wards? Has the consultative process prescribed for planning been followed for this allocation? Or is this money going to be allocated preferentially on political considerations to constituencies of MLAs of the ruling party, while MLAs of the Opposition are going to be neglected? Though solid waste management is mentioned, one does not know how much will be spent for overhauling the woeful infrastructure for collecting garbage and setting up decentralised waste processing units.

Given that the pandemic has exposed the glaring lack of infrastructure, manpower and resources for universal healthcare, one expected more allocation. 'Namma Clinics' have been proposed in all wards for teaching yoga and testing of non-communicable diseases, such as diabetes and hypertension. But these will not be equivalent to full-fledged Primary Healthcare Centres (PHCs). Currently, there are no PHCs in 57 wards. There are vacancies of doctors, specialists, nurses and ANMs in all healthcare facilities. While four super speciality 300-bed hospitals have been proposed, more necessary would be Secondary Healthcare Centres in every assembly constituency, and Tertiary Healthcare Centres in every zone. They would not only provide more employment but also enable proper delivery of services.

Kathyayini Chamaraj,
Executive Trustee, CIVIC Bangalore

A total of Rs 26,200 crore is supposed to be allocated for the Metro, the costliest option for decongesting Bengaluru. Another Rs 21,091 crore is to be allocated for the Peripheral Ring Road, which is mired in problems of land acquisition from farmers, but which will mostly benefit private car owners. Instead, the long-pending demand for circular rail would have been a better and easier option. What is glaringly missing is support for people- and environment-friendly bus transport system of BMTC, which is the cheapest and most efficient way to decongest Bengaluru. Nor is there any mention of non-motorised vehicles and pedestrian facilities. One bright spot is the allocation of Rs 15,267 crore for Bengaluru's Suburban Rail project.

Infrastructure needs for anganwadis, primary schools, housing for slum-dwellers, skill development etc in Bengaluru are expected to be fulfilled by the respective departments, but one does not know how much of the budget is going to be spent on Bengaluru.

In this context, CIVIC's recommendation that every municipal ward (and Gram Panchayat) should be given a unique location code, which all departments should mandatorily include in their budgets and expenditure vouchers submitted to the treasury, was appreciated by the Department of Administrative Reforms, and action promised. This would allow better analysis of how much money is being spent in Bengaluru on human and social development, and not just its traffic infrastructure.

Experts question need to add more clinics

Seek focus on women and child nutrition; Some say budget does not provide for investment in disease control

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

CM Basavaraj Bommai's maiden budget has bumped up the outlay for health by 17.54 per cent over last year, but experts have a mixed response to this. While a few call it a balanced budget, several feel the health outlay – which is 5 per cent of the total budget – is a marginal increase over last year and does not provide any room for urgently needed investments or to scale up ongoing interventions.

The budget could have had an outlay to stem the slide in ongoing programmes such as child immunisation, reproductive healthcare services and other disease control programmes that were impacted during the pandemic, say experts. Also, work on the ground should be reviewed and monitored. "It is a good thing that the state has shifted its focus to non-communicable diseases. Cardiac-related treatment provided at the taluk level, and tying up with Jayadeva Hospital is a good initiative, setting up of Namma Clinics and aspirational taluks to identify health issues are great initiatives. But the key is to review and monitor," said Dr CN Manjunath, Director, Jayadeva Hospitals.

Dr E Premdas Pinto, Faculty (Public Health), Azim Premji University, maintains that Karnataka already has 2,359 PHCs, 8,871 sub-centres and 146 taluk hospitals. "Why have separate Namma Clinics for non-communicable diseases and referral to specialists. Why don't we strengthen urban family welfare centres to handle NCDs? Most NCDs do not require separate clinics or specialist management. Why invest in separate standalone clinics?"

Karnataka already has 2,359 PHCs

Meanwhile, the recently published National Family Health Survey (NFHS-5) has revealed that there is a need in Karnataka to reduce infant mortality rate and maternal mortality rate, and the long-term effect of the pandemic may make it worse. Dr Sylvia Karpagam, public health doctor and researcher, says, "Government only says it will take all necessary steps to reduce MMR and IMR, but there is no mention of what action it will take, and what the budget is. Leaving it vague is not good practice."

Converting government hospitals to teaching hospitals is a very good strategy if the management is not going to be a private player, argue experts. Free dialysis services should be set up in public facilities, they say.

With widespread anaemia, there is an immediate need to focus on nutrition of both women and children. Several experts, including Dr Das, say fortified rice is an unscientific approach, and locally grown food and egg are better options. "Instead of politicising the issue, nutrition aspects should be looked at," he added.

Meanwhile, Dr Sylvia says the government is investing Rs 93 crore on this, which is a waste of resources. "The government could instead subsidise milk, meat, fish, poultry and eggs. It is a good idea to have a nutrition survey done, but in a transparent manner by a reliable organisation, and not private entities," she argues.

Dr Giridhara R Babu, public health expert and epidemiologist, says Karnataka had constituted a 'Health Vision Group' under the chairmanship of Dr Gururaj, ex-director of Nimhans. "Issues concerning PHC services and strengthening public health systems were part of the vision group's recommendations. We will wait and see if the government moots recommendations from the report."

Man held for harassing women cops, advocates

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

KAMAKSHIPALYA police have arrested a 37-year-old man for sexually harassing women by sending obscene messages and videos to over 100 of them, including women advocates and police personnel. The accused, Divya Raj, who went by different names, including Krishna, Ramakrishna, Manjunath, Chool, Prashanth and Praveen, is a native of Madugiri in Tumakuru district.

According to police sources, there are 14 cases registered against him in various police stations. He had also challenged the police to nab him and was evading arrest for the last six months.

After the police recovered his mobile phone, they found out that he was harassing women by making calls and sending obscene messages and videos to them on WhatsApp. The jurisdictional DCP has requested those who have been harassed by him to approach the police.

Raj confessed to the police and said he got a thrill by harassing women. He is also in a physical relationship with some of the victims.

According to police, Raj would collect contact details of women advocates under the pretext of getting legal help for his friends. Similarly, he would call police stations to obtain contact details of women police personnel under the pretext of helping women file complaints.

COURT TELLS BBMP TO SUBMIT FRESH PLAN TO FILL POTHOLES

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court on Saturday gave one more opportunity to the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) to submit a fresh work plan to fill up potholes in the city.

BBMP Engineer-in-Chief S Prabhakar and Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta assured the division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice S R Krishna Kumar that they will ensure that a proper work plan is prepared to fill up/repair potholes in the CBD of Bengaluru and by using proper technology, deploying machines. Adjourning the hearing on the PIL filed by Vijayan Menon and others to March 15, 2022 on their request, the court asked BBMP to reveal how many people have been killed due to potholes. BBMP counsel V Srinidhi replied that deaths were not due to potholes but adjacent road cuttings.

He submitted that a Python machine is being used to fill potholes on main roads where there is high traffic density and hot mix for smaller roads. A tender floated to fill up potholes was opened on March 3, 2022, but not a single bidder came forward. The court said, "Don't say there were no bidders. It is an eyewash."

Srinidhi said BBMP has to bear Rs 450 per sq yard for filling up potholes with hot mix and pay Rs 30 lakh per km to repair roads using Python.

The court told Gupta, "Your engineers are creating problems. If you want, we will pass the orders to remove them and post good engineers."

Will act against Gupta over dumping of waste, says HC

ENS @ Bengaluru

ORALLY observing that time has come to make BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta realise what is right and what is wrong, the Karnataka High Court on Saturday directed him to file a personal affidavit explaining his conduct of disobeying court's order against dumping solid waste at Mittaganahalli quarry without authorisation from the Karnataka State Pollution Control Board.

When Gupta appeared before the court, a division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice SR Krishna Kumar observed that officers think that they are above law. "We will make them realise what is law," it said.

The court asked Uday Holla, who appeared for BBMP, "Nothing can be above the court order. We will have to send him to jail if he (Gupta) cannot understand the court order. How will you defend him? Let him appear in person and see what happens."

"We had called him (Gupta) once and told him that we will support if you perform. In spite of this, dumping of solid waste is continuing. We have been watching his conduct for quite some time. This is not the first case," it said, noting that it is giving one more opportunity to Gupta to file his personal affidavit.

Before this, Uday Holla submitted that KSPCB granted the authorisation and consent on February 25, 2022. The court said it will decide whether mercy can be shown after Gupta files the affidavit.

SUNDAY INTERVIEW

'Focus on evacuation now, will help students with edu'

RAMU PATIL

AS students returning home from Ukraine face uncertainty over continuing their education, Karnataka Higher Education Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan said safe evacuation of students is the first priority of the government, and concerns over their education too will be looked into. After the Russia-Ukraine war started, 366 students from Karnataka have returned from Ukraine as on Saturday evening, while many are still stranded in the war-torn country. Excerpts from the interview.

Several students pursuing higher education in Ukraine are returning home after the war started. Will the government help them in continuing their education?

The priority now is to ensure safe evacuation of students and bring them back home. That is being done now. We have to see how long will this war continue and if they want to go back (to Ukraine to continue education). First, the focus is on evacuation and after that, we can look into their academics. We will certainly do whatever best we can. Let us see the developments as we don't know how long the war will go on and if there will be a ceasefire.

Is there any thinking in the government on those lines?

Whenever there is any requirement the government has to respond and we will do that. The government will help them. However, it is too early to talk about details.

Your views on budget allocation and the focus on the Higher Education department?

We have taken several measures and digitalisation has improved the quality of learning. Bengaluru and Karnataka are ahead of others in terms of innovation, technology, entrepreneurship and start-ups. The quality of education needs to improve and there is a need for more collaboration between industries and institutions to ensure that all graduates are employable and industry-ready. We are trying to do whatever is required to support and facilitate that in terms of academics and infrastructure. The National Education Policy (NEP) is forward-looking.

The budget also mentions employment policy...

Yes. We have also come out with a simple portal to connect all the stakeholders on one platform to provide all information about demand, the skill and qualifications required. It helps youngsters to start learning in that direction, along with their basic courses. The government is facilitating this by providing required staff and infrastructure. Karnataka is the land of opportunity and future. But we need to ensure that available resources meet the requirements. We also want to take industries beyond Bengaluru and measures are being taken in that direction.

The budget also mentions upgrading seven government engineering colleges. How will they be selected?

They will be selected based on the region and number of admissions. We are taking up seven colleges and the remaining colleges too will be included in Super30. The government, the VTU and industry will work together to ensure all our government colleges are well-positioned. These institutions should play the role of the anchor for their respective districts. These colleges should be looked up to for technology, innovation and also play the role of start-up hubs. It takes time to build institutions and we have initiated measures in that direction.

There seems to be a lot of focus on Bengaluru in the budget. Is it because of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike elections?

If the city has to do well and our economy has to sustain, we have to focus on Bengaluru development and infrastructure.

Doctor dreams? It's a living nightmare

ASPIRING for a medical seat in Karnataka – as much as across India – and pursuing a dream to be a doctor is a path filled with problems for students and their parents right from the outset.

According to the experts, the high cost of medical education in India is a cruel irony. The economics at play behind a medical seat, and the increasing demand for it, provides an in-built mechanism driving thousands of students – like 21-year-old Naveen Shekharappa Gyanagoudar who was killed in an attack by Russian forces in Kharkiv in Ukraine last week – to easier and cheaper routes to achieving their dreams. They get admission to medical schools in countries like Ukraine, Russia, China or Singapore. And if and when they return, these students face a bleak future -- before starting practice in India, they have to write another examination which is very tough, and even then, they are discriminated against.

Besides, the system here discourages students admitted to colleges in Karnataka and India from taking up rural medical service in a country which requires it the most.

There is high demand for medical seats in Karnataka. As per 2021 data for the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET), the all-India pre-medical entrance test for students aspiring for undergraduate medical (MBBS), dental (BDS) and AYUSH courses in government and private institutions, 1,19,626 students from Karnataka registered for a total of 8,850 medical seats on offer in the state.

Experts say while the competitive spirit prevails in every field, the medical field is heavily influenced by the financial factor. Parents of students who do clear NEET, have to take heavy loans to ensure a seat – more so in a private medical college, where the fees (as per 2021 data) range between Rs 6,28,670 and Rs 20,15,500 per year. The "other" category, or the management seat, costs between Rs 30,12,450 and Rs 60,12,450 per year for a course that goes up to four-and-a-half years. It ranges between Rs 59,850 and Rs 2,04,246 per year for a government seat.

Dr Dayananda Sagar L, past president, Karnataka Association of Resident Doctors, says it is not medical education that is expensive in India per se, but management seats.

He says the government fixes fees for seats in government medical colleges, government quota seats in private medical colleges and private seats. But, management seats are left to the discretion of private colleges and vary from state to state. "A government college seat may cost around Rs 60,000 per year, while a private merit seat costs around Rs 6 lakh to Rs 8 lakh per year. However, a management seat goes up to Rs 40 lakh per year, which costs around Rs 2 crore for 4.5 years of MBBS," he says.

Students who do not get a seat through government quota via NEET, and cannot afford management seats in India, go to countries like Ukraine, China, Singapore or Russia, where the entire medical education package costs between Rs 30 lakh and Rs 40 lakh.

Students admitted in Karnataka colleges, whose parents do manage to raise the money – a vast majority through loans from banks or through private money lenders by paying much higher interest – are the luckier ones. But their prime focus on completing their medical course then turns to repaying the huge debts their parents are in. Their only route to repayment is through service in a high-end speciality hospital or by going abroad. Rural medical service is pushed to the back-burner, while private medical colleges continue minting money while laughing all the way to the bank.

Several thousand others seek medical courses in Ukraine, China or Russia, which costs just a fraction of what it does here. And NEET ranking is not considered there either.

Also, taking loans from banks for studies abroad is easier than for higher studies in India. A manager of a nationalised bank informed The New Sunday Express that many who seek bank loans for higher studies prefer foreign universities as banks lend money only for the fees, not capitation fees. "We lend only against the college fee receipt. They cannot produce receipts for capitation fees charged by Indian colleges. This is also a reason why they prefer foreign universities," says the bank manager, who requested anonymity.

NOT ROSY FOR RETURNEES

Having a MD Physician (equivalent to MBBS) degree from universities in a country like Ukraine does not guarantee easy jobs for young Indian students who return to their homeland on completing their course.

Their real challenge is when they pass the foreign degree and return. They have to crack the Foreign Medical Graduation Examination (FMGE), a licensure examination conducted by the National Board of Examination in India, to practice medicine in the country.

Vamshi Varahabhatla, who did his MD Physician from Ukraine, says the FMGE is very tough to crack and only 20 per cent of the candidates manage to clear the exam, which is held twice a year, although there is no limit on the number of attempts.

But those who do their medical in Ukraine have to fight stigma in India. "FMGEs are always considered less knowledgeable by Indian graduates. Only degrees from five English-speaking countries have value here," says Vamshi.

Further, candidates who have done only MBBS find it very difficult to sustain, and have to do MD to earn a handsome salary. A fraction of those who do MD Physician in countries like Ukraine go back there to do MD, while others try NEET PG in India.

HIGH COST: HOW IT ADDS UP

Dr George D'Souza, Dean, St John's Medical College, explains: "The National Medical Commission has defined norms on how many doctors, junior doctors, nurses, beds for teaching, and equipment are needed to run a medical college. A lot has to be invested into equipment such as CT scan, MRI, endoscopy equipment, ultrasound, etc. These have to be purchased every few years along with buying new technology to train students."

He says there are only three sources of revenue for medical college hospitals – patients, students and philanthropists. Charging patients is difficult and they do not get as many donors as universities like Harvard and Yale. So, students and their parents bear the brunt.

SOLUTION

Dr KS Ravindranath, former vice-chancellor of Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences, says one solution to make medical education more affordable in India is to encourage more government medical colleges, so that the number of government seats increases. At present, even if students qualify for a seat, many drop out due to their inability to pay for it.

He stood for 17 hours in train to reach Poland

DIVYA CUTINHO @ Mangaluru

SHEIKH Mohammad Thaha, a medical student from Mangaluru, is yet to get out of war-hit Ukraine. Thaha had been staying in a shelter just 10 km away from Kharkiv.

Thaha said he spent more than a week in a bunker. "We are near Poltava, which is 130 km away from Kharkiv, right now and the Indian embassy is expected to send buses to transport the remaining students. We could hear heavy shelling in Kharkiv as it is just 10 km away from the place we were staying."

Meanwhile, Pavan Kumar from Moodbidri returned from Ukraine on Friday. Pavan said , "We did not have enough food and basic facilities. Amid severe cold, we travelled in a train standing for almost 17 hours to the Poland border and crossed over on foot. We had our final examination on May 22, and, since we did not know the severity of the war, we could not move out on time. There are still over 600 students stranded in Ukraine," he said.

Professional education needs a relook: CM

G SUBHASH CHANDRA @ Chalageri (Haveridt)

SHOWING concern over the professional education system in the country, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said if our students are not getting medical and engineering seats despite being meritorious, there is a need to reconsider the system of admission to higher education courses.

He was addressing the media on Saturday, after paying floral tributes to Naveen Gyanagoudar, who was killed in shelling in Ukraine last Tuesday. "The Central government too is seriously discussing the issue of admission to professional courses, and I have also held discussions on this issue. The state government can only provide support for payment of fees, the examination and selection process is at the national level and needs the intervention of the Centre."

Bommai also handed over a compensation cheque of Rs 25 lakh to Naveen's parents. Consoling his father Shekarappa Gyanagoudar, mother Vijayalakshmi and brother Harsha, Bommai said he too is in grief over the death of Naveen, and his government is committed to bring back his body which is secured by the Indian Embassy and placed in the mortuary of a Kharkiv hospital. He said he is in constant touch with External Affairs Minister Dr S Jaishankar, and diplomats in India and Ukraine to bring Naveen's body home.

The constant bombardment in Ukraine made it difficult to fly the body back, but with a temporary ceasefire announced by Russia, there are better chances now, he said.

"Some students from Karnataka who were stranded at Kharkiv are now in safe places about 30km from the affected areas, some are still in bunkers, and the safe passage created due to the ceasefire will help evacuate all the students," he said.

Two Bidar students back home safe from Ukraine

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bidar

TWO students from Bidar, who were stranded in war-torn Ukraine, returned to the country on Saturday. Amit Siranje from Mangalpet and Vaishnavi from Narayanpur village of Basavakalyan taluk reached New Delhi on Saturday morning.

While Amit caught a flight to Hyderabad and arrived at Bidar town later in the evening, Vaishnavi will reach Bengaluru on Saturday night or Sunday.

Deputy Commissioner Govind Reddy said two other students — Shashank and Vivek — are safe at at Pisochyn in Ukraine. The Indian embassy will evacuate them from there.

Reddy and Superintendent of police Dekka Kishor Babu visited the houses of Shashank and Vivek in Bidar on Friday.

TREATED WATER A BOON FOR KOLAR, CHIKKABALLAPUR

Bengaluru: Rural Development and Panchayat Raj Principal Secretary L K Ateeq, who took part in the meeting, said in the last two years, treated sewage water from Bengaluru is being used to fill around 40 per cent of tanks in Kolar and Chikkaballapur, which has substantially increased the groundwater level. "We have tested the groundwater quality and it is fit to drink. But water from the tanks is not. We have told villagers not to use water from tanks that has treated sewage water from Bengaluru. We have advised them to drink water from ROs and are also exploring alternate sources," he said.

CM calls for amendment to Water Disputes Act

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

Union Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat and CM Basavaraj Bommai inaugurate a conclave on Jal Jeevan Mission

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Saturday said the Inter-State Water Disputes Act needs to be amended.

Addressing the Southern States' conclave of Jal Jeevan Mission and Swachh Bharat Abhiyan(Rural) Projects, the CM said the Act should be amended to overcome the narrow political considerations over water disputes and make more water available for the people. River Basin Management is the only solution for this, the CM said and added that Karnataka is coming out with an integrated approach to water management.

Bommai said it is the duty of the government to provide water for the people and they should work with consensus when dealing with issues of water. There is huge misutilisation of water in irrigation water channels, he said. At the national level, only 46 per cent of the capacity is being utilised through the canals. There is a difference of 54 per cent in the carrying capacity of the canals. More water could be made available if these canals are upgraded, the CM said. "We are facing environmental challenges. Perennial rivers are turning into seasonal rivers. Rivers are drying up even before reaching the sea," the CM said.

Water resources belong to the state and they have to work with consensus to make good use of it and formulate projects with an integrated approach, he said.

On implementation of the Mission, the CM said he will personally oversee the project implementation and it will be completed in time and funds have been provided in the budget.

Uranium traces in water a concern: Shekhawat

Union Jal Shakthi Minister Gajendra Singh Shekhawat on Saturday expressed concern over uranium traces in drinking water in some parts of Karnataka and promised to address this immediately. "It's a serious concern for all of us. I have directed the authorities concerned that this should be immediately addressed. People should not be forced to drink such contaminated water. Immediate solution can be provided by community water treatment plants and also under multi-village schemes," Shekhawat told reporters. According to an official, uranium content was found in groundwater in some parts of Kolar and Chikkaballapur districts.

One body retrieved from quarry, rescue ops continue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Mysuru

THE NDRF team that has been pressed into rescue operation at the crash of a whole stone quarry near Gundlupet has retrieved one body from under huge boulders and mud after seven hours of digging. The team has continued its operations, as many fear that two more people, who were operators of earthmovers, were crushed to death.

The rescue team is focusing on spots where the foul smell is emanating from as it is difficult to move large boulders that have come crashing at the quarry. The deceased has been identified as Safaraz and the team is looking for Hazeemulla and Meeraj, all from Uttar Pradesh, who worked at the quarry for the last one year.

District in-charge minister V Somanna visited the quarry at Madahalli village along with district officials and held the Mines and Geology officer responsible for the tragedy.

The minister said that Mines and Geology officers will investigate the allegations made by the Raitha Sangha that quarrying was being carried out in four acres of land, while permission had been given for one acre.

The Gundlupet police have registered an FIR against four people, including quarry manager Naveed, who was arrested on Friday, owner Mahendrappa and contractor Hakim, who are missing.

Five staffers of a hotel sustained burn injuries following an explosion apparently from a gas leakage in Bengaluru on Saturday. Following the explosion in the kitchen, customers were sent out. Two fire tenders doused the fire in an hour. Indiranagar police have registered a case of accidental fire.

Former NSE MD builds villa near Anand's flat

Swanky structure on ₹15 cr plot in Chennai

R RAJESH KUMAR @ Chennai

CHITRA Ramkrishna, ex-CEO and MD of NSE, is building a swanky 6,000 sqft villa on a ₹15-crore plot at Seethammal Colony Extension in Teynampet. This follows the sale of her 2,081-square-feet luxury flat in a nearby building to the wife of Anand Subramanian, the man at the centre of the Himalayan Baba controversy.

Anand, whom she had parachuted into the position of unofficial NSE No 2, had been living in this apartment well before the sale formally took place on February 23, 2021, for ₹3.2 crore, sources told TNIE.

Now comes the proof that Chitra bought a 5,283 sqft plot nearby, exactly two months later on April 23, 2021. Anand had been supervising the construction of the two-storeyed villa here, on behalf of Chitra.

Six years after running into trouble and making their exits from NSE, were the duo then planning to turn neighbours? 'Guruguhakripa', the grand bungalow that is being built, might have been holding answers to more than just that question.

As per official records, Chitra bought this plot for ₹12.9 crore. But for people staying in the neighbourhood, it was Anand who was calling the shots. Anand made repeated assertions that the villa happened to be in the name of his wife Sunitha Anand's "cousin sister".

Yes, the very same Sunitha whom Chitra said was a "good friend" and the person through whom she knew Anand, according to the 190-page SEBI report. Interestingly, no one recollects seeing any inspections being carried out by Chitra. It must be remembered though that the transaction happened at a time when India was hit by the Delta wave. Anand was said to have enquired about another property across the road almost diagonally opposite to the plot that was bought. The next everyone knew was when construction began a few months later.

"It all happened very quickly. The old house, built around 20 years ago, was pulled down and then a gate in the property was sealed as it was not Vaastu-compliant. A little while later, the building work kicked off," a neighbour told TNIE.The plan reveals that it is a modern villa replete with all amenities - pooja room, a lounge (family TV room), gym and an EB room to house the generator. The construction began in October.

Though rains in November brought work to a halt, the project resumed with renewed vigour in December. It continues in full swing now.

Anand was quoted as saying that he planned to use the place for poojas. He also reportedly said he had contemplated building a cowshed within but then the idea was dropped considering the hassles involved in keeping cows in the city.

It all happened very quickly. The old house, built around 20 years ago, was pulled down and then a gate was sealed as it was not Vaastu-compliant. A little while later, the building work kicked off,

IISc tech to help wriggle out of chip shortage

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

IN the background of a severe shortage of chips bugging the automotive industry, researchers from the Indian Institute of Science (IISc) and a partnering foundry have developed an indigenous technology platform for manufacturing semiconductors to be used for commercial and strategic applications.

The shortage was caused by a massive increase in demand for computers, mobile phones and other consumer electronics during the Covid pandemic when people shifted to working from home and through lockdowns. The demand had been such that it far surpassed the supplies.

The IISc team and its foundry partner under the IMPRINT programme of the Centre have now developed a basic technological platform that can boost production of automotive chips at a fraction of the cost compared to importing the technology.

They have been working on developing the Laterally Diffused MOS (LDMOS), which are high-voltage switches or transistors built into the automotive chips. These are found to be in the range of 10V to 80V with characteristics matching current industry offerings.

Automotive chips are different from the conventional processor chips used in devices such as smartphones and laptops. An automotive chip – which are also referred to as application-specific integrated circuit (ASIC), a microchip designed for a special application – needs to handle various tasks simultaneously, including instrumentation, sensing and control of various electro-mechanical parts, IISc researchers explained.

The electrical interface to these parts operates at higher voltages (5V-80V) compared to a processor chip, which requires a low voltage switch or transistor (0.9V-1.8V). However, to achieve 80V by importing technology would have cost tens of millions of dollars. The IISc-IMPRINT foundry collaborative effort augmented the baseline process and enabled the development of devices capable of operating at 80V, at a cost of less than $0.5 million.

Prof Mayank Shrivastava, of Department of Electronic Systems Engineering, IISc, who led the project, said "These LDMOS devices can now become standard offerings, which will help our foundry partner develop a range of very large scale integration (VLSI) products in-house. Besides, the technology/knowhow can be transferred to other semiconductor foundries to scale up the automotive process." IISc tech may help automotive industry come out of chips shortage

Caught copying in exams, B.Com student ends life

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 19-year-old B.Com student ended her life by jumping from the fifth floor of a ladies PG accommodation in Amarajyothi Layout on Friday. The victim left the house by informing that she is going to her college, instead she went to the terrace of the building at Amarajyothi Layout and jumped to her death. Based on a preliminary investigation, the police suspect that the incident is related with her alleged malpractice in an examination. The deceased has been identified as Bhavya, a resident of Murugeshpalya. She was a first year B.Com student at a private college in Koramangala.

A passersby who noticed the body alerted the police and it was taken for post-mortem. It was later discovered that she had called her sister to inform her before committing suicide.

Small fund, forest dept changes plan

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

WITH the first-ever green budget allocation of Rs 100 crore to the forest department for economic ecological losses, department officials have reset their priorities, reduced the number of projects and shrunk their focus as the money allocated has been much lesser than Rs 2,500 crore demanded during a pre-budget presentation to CM Basavaraj Bommai.

The money will be utilised for greening dry grasslands, eastern plains and regions in north Karnataka, which have been adversely affected because of drought, recent flooding, dry arid climate and improper management by local administrations and forest officials over the years.

"With a projected outlay of Rs 2,500 crore, we wanted to utilise the amount for welfare schemes and to revive lost landscapes in the Western Ghats and across the state. But we are happy that we have got Rs 100 crore besides the annual budget allocation.," a senior forest department official.

The official said the money will be utilised for raising seedlings for farmers, hand holding them in protection, greening wastelands and increasing the green cover in the state. Planting of saplings and choice of species will be done based on the requirements of the region, he added.

"Forest Minister Umesh V Katti too has shown some pockets in Vijayapura, Belagavi and north Karnataka which need to be greened. The areas that are away from the Western Ghats and little attention has been paid to, will now be addressed. Flood-affected regions of north Karnataka too will be greened.

We are clear that the amount will be used for works different from the projects planned under the annual budget. We had a long list of 15 agendas and it has now been reduced to two," the official stated.

With six complaints, tattoo artist on the run

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WITH two more complaints received against Kochi-based tattoo artist Sujeesh P S, the police have intensified the search for him. The 35-year-old reportedly left for Bengaluru soon after the social media post of an 18-year-old girl detailing the traumatic sexual assault she allegedly faced at his tattoo parlour went viral a few days ago. The number complaints received so far has gone up to six and the police are expecting more in the coming days. Sources said he would be arrested soon.

City Police Commissioner Nagaraju Chakilam is overseeing the probe. Police said the survivors were allegedly sexually assaulted when they went to his studio at Palarivattom to get the tattoo done.

"It seems many were hesitant to lodge a complaint. Now, more are coming forward after police convinced a few survivors to lodge complaint,"said an officer. The brutal sexual assault incidents that took place at the studio identified as "Inkfected".

SANCTIONS AND THE SPECTRE OF DEGLOBALISATION

SUPERLATIVES typically serve the purpose of weaponising rhetoric and outrage. The sanctions imposed on Russia are described as the 'toughest', 'unprecedented' and 'like none the world has seen before'. Yet, over 1.2 million have had to seek refuge in Poland and Romania and over 40 million people across Ukraine could soon be refugees in their own land.

Russia's major banks stand expelled from the global payments system. Its central bank is barred from tapping most of its $600-billion-plus reserves, multinational companies are pulling out — retrenching investments, production and sales. A week into the war, the waves of sanctions have been matched by waves of missile and artillery attacks and boots on the ground. Notwithstanding the Saturday pause, the ceasefire deal on humanitarian grounds, Ukraine is under siege encircled by one of the world's largest nuclear powers, its army resisting the advance and Volodymyr Zelensky is still standing. Neither the sanctions nor threat of new ones appear to have stirred Vladimir Putin nor shaken his resolve.

THE THIRD EYE

SHANKKAR AIYAR

Author of The Gated Republic, Aadhaar: A Biometric History of India's 12 Digit Revolution, and Accidental India

shankkar.aiyar@gmail.com

The record of sanctions to deter invasion or change the behaviour of aggressors/invaders is far from inspiring. In August 1990, the UN Security Council imposed sanctions on Iraq to force it out of Kuwait. Saddam Hussein scarcely moved. In January 1991, a coalition force of 30-plus countries led by the US conducted 'Operation Desert Storm' to evict Iraq.

In October 1999, the UN imposed sanctions on Al Qaeda, its leader Osama Bin Laden and the Taliban. Nearly two years on, Al Qaeda operatives carried out the 9/11 terror attacks. While Bin Laden was killed in 2012, the Taliban is back in power. And despite a series of sanctions imposed since 2014 following the annexation of Crimea, Putin has continued on his path. Russia has deployed both conventional tactics in theatres such as Donbas and cyber warfare on global targets pretty much with what can be called Putinesque impunity!

The efficacy of sanctions wholly depends on the filters/fencing that scaffolds it. It is not a secret that the filters are far from perfect. Countries have found ways to beat the system — for instance, Iran has offloaded a part of its crude oil output through proxies even though it remains under sanctions. And the proxy playbook is not unknown to Russia. The current lot of sanctions are aimed at denying Russia monetisation of its resources and access to critical technology and goods. China is Russia's largest trading partner and the scale of the engagement affords Moscow the opportunity to deal with the sanctions challenge. The expansion of engagement between China and Russia will accelerate the creation of sanctuaries and has the potential to aggravate the spectre of deglobalisation.

The instruments of circumvention could range from the simple yester-year Yuan-Rouble deals to adoption of the digital currency to more complex arrangements — where Russian companies open Yuan accounts with Chinese banks, where Chinese companies deploy/create shell structures to front trading in Russian output in global marts. The enlargement of the accommodative relationship has the potential to upend the accepted and adopted financial architecture, disrupt established supply chains, slow down world trade and weaken global growth.

The fundamental cause of failure of sanctions is convenient ideological ambivalence on issues which must matter — this is worsened by fear of long wars and rising inadequacies of regimes in dealing with domestic politics. The design of action, therefore, is often afflicted by symbolism, of the "we must do something" genre when faced with actions upending rule-based systems.

The consensus of compromises is visible in the design of the current sanctions package. The logic of sanctions is crippling of economic capacity — by demonetising trade, investment routes and even reserves of the targeted entity — to deny funding of aggression. But by leaving out the energy basket, the sanctions allow Putin to fund the war machine. The harsh reality is that the design and implementation of sanctions have often left the victim unattended and let the offender scot free. Critically, the sanctions must achieve the objective of strangulation by triangulation. This requires sanctions to be flanked by other instruments of state policy be it military, diplomacy or aid. That though has not been the case.

Consider this. The crisis in Ukraine is seen by many as the prologue to what will follow. China has made no secret of its aspiration on "reunification of Taiwan". Fact is Taiwan is yet to be recognised as a sovereign entity by the US and its stance continues to be "strategic ambiguity". Effectively, the US has not promised to help it fight in the event of a conflict with China but it has also not said that it will not step in. This has been the state of affairs since the days of the Nixon-Mao détente.

There is no disputing that Xi Jinping has made it the cornerstone of his legacy. Xi and Putin have long since scoffed at the ideals propounded by the West. Indeed, the February declaration of friendship with "no limits" symbolises the common aspiration of a united front. The current crisis emboldens China to reinforce the idea that it offers a viable alternative to the Westphalian rule-based world order

There is no mistaking the geopolitical implications.

ARE 'LOW-CALIBRE MEN' INDIA'S DESTINY?

POINT OF VIEW

T J S GEORGE

WINSTON Churchill hated India. Which was natural because his mind was mutilated by imperialism, so he couldn't understand why the stupid Indians agitated for independence.

Rudyard Kipling had no such problem. Being a poet, he took a philosophical view of the world and agreed that "East is east and West is west and never the twain shall meet." If that reality had been accepted by both East and West, a great deal of the world's problems could have been avoided. The pretension that East and West are the same has been the root of all evil in the world.

Inherent in the East-West dichotomy is the assumption that the East is poor and miserable while the West is rich and splendid. Such a notion held good for generations because the West conquered the East and took away all its riches. People of the east were left in poverty, and as vassals of the west.

Then something unexpected happened: Prosperity broke out in the east. Despite all the oppression of the people of the east, their innate abilities and the blessings of Nature eventually got the upper hand.

When the economy opened up in the 1990s, many failed initially to comprehend its implications. The wise had always known about the potential of India. "I am a short-term pessimist and long-term optimist," J R D Tata had said. In 2005, private spending reached about $372 billion, accounting for more than 60 per cent of the GDP. Average household incomes were estimated to triple in the next two decades, making India the world's fifth largest consumer economy by 2025. An astonished world paused to acknowledge a new India.

While the real growth story began with liberalisation, entrepreneurs had started pushing their way through earlier. Dhirubhai Ambani, a true rag-to-riches legend, created an equity cult in the Indian capital market that was unimaginable before. He ended up heading the country's largest private sector company. Along the way, he devised ways to manipulate the system of controls that prevailed then. In other words, he defied the law. Many of his activities were downright illegal, but he won praise for what he did.

"New blood" also began to make a difference. Ambani and Mittal — and Tata and Birla, Mahindra and Godrej, Ruia and Dhoot — at least had business genes in them, hailing as they did from what were known as traditional business communities. Towards the 1980s, a new kind of kid entered the block. Suddenly, things like Information Technology industry, biochemicals, pharmaceutical research and low-cost airlines became game-changers in India and names like N R Narayana Murthy, Kiran Mazumdar-Shaw, Anji Reddy and G R Gopinath acquired the glow of business magic. (Recalling his early days in Infosys, Narayana Murthy put things graphically. "Of the 21 years of my CEOship, about 11 years were lost in darkness. I used to make 50 visits to Delhi for small things. We did not have current account convertibility; we could not open offices. To import even a small thing, it required huge efforts"). It was the single-mindedness of the entrepreneurs and the professionals that gave new dimensions to India's economic thrust. Once that thrust gathered momentum, politicians, parties and bureaucrats vied with one another to claim credit. Seven wealthy towns contend for Homer dead/Through which the living Homer begged his bread.

With the instrumentalities of Parliament becoming ineffective, democracy did begin to look rather over-ambitious for India — the exact opposite of the confidence that led to the erudite debates and the Constitution in 1950

The Dalai Lama once said: "In Chinese Parliament there is too much silence and in the Indian Parliament there is too much noise." He meant it as a compliment when he referred to accusations and counter-accusations filling the political space and Parliament grinding to a noisy halt on each of one session's 23 working days. With the instrumentalities of Parliament becoming ineffective, democracy did begin to look rather over-ambitious for India — the exact opposite of the confidence that led to the erudite debates and the Constitution in 1950. The learned men who shaped those debates had set their sights high for India, and India had risen to their expectations in the early phase of its journey. In a few years, we lost that India.

That would not have surprised Winston Churchill. When the Indian Independence Act was debated in the Houses of Commons in June 1947, Britain's ranking imperialist used wounding words to put a curse upon India: "Power will go to the hands of rascals, rogues, freebooters; all Indian leaders will be of low calibre and men of straw. They will have sweet tongues and silly hearts. They will fight among themselves for power and India will be lost in political squabbles."

Is that imperial curse working now? Are low-calibre men burying India in ego-led political squabbles?

THERE are times when politics is learning without education. When panic stricken medical students stranded in war-torn Ukraine were fighting for survival, Union Minister Prahlad Joshi sneered publicly that 60 per cent of Indian students who go abroad land up in China, Russia and Ukraine because the fees and cost of living is low. Being election time, the unprecedented Operation Ganga was launched by New Delhi to repair the damage. As Russian missiles rained down on Kyiv and other cities, several Union Ministers were dispatched to Ukrainian border posts to offer roses to the helpless students and to get them out safely. After all, one smile from a thankful student is worth a thousand votes or more. And there were 20,000 of them.

The irony is that Joshi was speaking the truth. The sickness started in his state Karnataka in the late '70s, which mastered the art of minting money from medical colleges by inventing capitation fees. Since then, India's health system has deteriorated, unable to create an affordable health infrastructure and new hospitals to cope with the growing demand. As of now, we have just one doctor per 1,500 citizens as against the WHO norm of 1:1,000. This shortage is directly related to the growing gap between demand and supply for medical personnel. The skewed distribution of medical colleges and a heterogeneous fee structure have led to maximum distortions in seat admissions.

The diagnosis is dismal — India is one of the worst countries in terms of number of seats in proportion to its huge population and it presents the biggest source of corruption in the system. As of last year, there were only 90,000 MBBS seats available in the 600-odd private and government medical institutions. An additional 28,000 seats were available for Bachelor of Dental Surgery. For 1.10 lakh seats, over 16 lakh candidates registered for NEET last year. MBBS seats are almost equally divided between the government and private colleges. The dispersal of medical institutions has led to major unrest among candidates seeking admission. Though admissions are now centralised through competitive examinations, they still cause heartburn among various states which feel that the examination system is weighted against regional languages and aspirations.

Too busy with vote geography, linguistic cartography and ideological imperatives, India's policymakers never considered health education a priority. The symptoms are endemic — a country of over 1.25 billion people lacks well-equipped hospitals in rural districts. World class institutions are confined to metropolitan cities or developed states. Of the 90,000 medical seats, over one third is in the five Southern states of Tamil Nadu, Karnataka, Kerala, Andhra Pradesh and Telangana. Karnataka has over 95 seats. West India is better off than the North and the East. Maharashtra and Gujarat together have 15,000 seats. On the other hand, UP, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, Rajasthan, Haryana, Himachal etc — which house around half of the national population — have barely 20,000 seats. Uttar Pradesh having 20 crore population, offers only 7,500 seats. West Bengal has barely 5,000. An added complication is that Indian medical colleges cannot supply enough medical staff to hospitals across the country. At present, India has around 70,000 big and small hospitals with over 12 lakh beds. The majority of them don't have enough doctors to treat patients on a regular basis. This abysmal shortage was evident during the pandemic.

It isn't the shortage of medical seats alone that sends our youth to study abroad. It is the filthy admission architecture coupled with caste based reservations which have driven many out of India. Moreover, the cost of medical education is stratospheric as compared to other countries. Though the fee structure is regulated, it is still exorbitant vis-a-vis Bangladesh, Ukraine, Romania, Poland, China and Russia. All of them together offer over 20,000 seats to Indian students. Their annual fee is one third of what an Indian private college charges. Moreover, students get better infrastructure facilities abroad.

Bureaucracy is a growing tumour; any graduate of a foreign medical college must take a test before allowed to join the profession or practice as a doctor. India has mastered the art of imposing conditions and restrictions on academic admissions at every stage, thereby allowing the medical mafia to profit. The system of granting permission to establish new colleges gave unfettered power to babus in the Health Ministry or the Medical Council of India (MCI) who sabotaged well-deserved applicants. On the other hand, during the 80's, some new medical colleges were opened without doctors. Crooked operators moved medical staff, beds and equipment from one hospital to another for official inspection. Moreover, the MCI and other agencies have provided impractical and expensive guidelines for establishing new colleges — almost over ₹180 crore for an MBBS institution. Obviously, a private medical entrepreneur will want to recover the cost from the students. The system is so sick that an Indian medical college can churn out only 133 medical graduates — the lowest number at highest cost in the world. A medical college in Western Europe produces 150 doctors a year, East Europe 225 and China 930. The cancerous Indian bureaucracy created artificial scarcities in healthcare. Instead of generating more seats, they allowed institutions to raise the fee. The concept of capitation fee is now back, reborn in a higher fee structure. Since a large number of private colleges are owned by influential political and corporate titans, the institutions operate on a profit only basis.

New ways to make money are cooked up regularly by the healthcare gang; private medical institutions have been granted NRI quota priced up to Rs 1 crore per seat. Many rich, powerful Indians have falsely obtained these seats for their children through relatives abroad. The disease is also social. Many middle-class Indians see their children as dowry magnets, since a doctor is the second most sought after bridegroom after an IAS officer. To get admission into a college of his or her choice, the Indian student must cross both the financial hurdle and the caste barrier. But other nations aren't bothered about caste and community.

India spends around ₹70,000 crore annually on its students studying abroad. PM Narendra Modi wasn't off the mark when he said that the failures of the past establishment are responsible for our students leaving to study in smaller countries. "In 2014, our country had 387 medical colleges. In the last seven years, this number has gone up to 596. This is an increase of 54 per cent. There were only seven AIIMS before 2014 but now, the number of AIIMS approved has increased to 22," he said.

A nexus of greed and power ails the Indian health system. It is time to swallow the bitter pill and streamline a competitive, confident and clean process to produce the doctors of tomorrow to deliver a powerful Swasth, Swachh, Atmanirbhar and Samppan Bharat.

Adieu king of spin

Shane Warne, one of the greatest cricketers of all time, is no more. He reinvented spin bowling, mastering intricacies and deploying his skills as devastating weapon especially against England. At Trafford in 1993, he bamboozled England's Mike Gating with the "ball of the century". No doubt he played an instrumental part in Australia's era of dominance and helped the team win the World Cup in 1999. Warne had plenty of highs, which includes finishing his Test career with 708 wickets. Winning the inaugural 2008 IPL with Rajasthan Royals is definitely one of his career highlights after retirement. He remained immensely popular in India. Rest In Peace, legend.

Will NCB compensate Aryan?

It is reported that the SIT constituted by NCB found no evidence against Aryan Khan in the drugs abuse case. Even at the time of registration of the case, the facts bore no evidence of his connection with any drug cartel. The NCB proceeded on assumptions and presumptions, arresting the son of a celebrity. Who will compensate him for loss of reputation and needless sufferings he underwent for nearly a month in incarceration, and how? Arrests should follow only after a thorough investigation. Hasty and motivated arrests, to please the powers that be, should be avoided . The cart should not be put before the horse.

Poll campaign during crisis

The opposition has taken umbrage at PM Modi undertaking election campaigns in the poll-bound states even as the Ukraine-Russia war is raging and Indians are desperately waiting to be evacuated. There is substance in the opposition's broadside on Modi in this regard. Modi should have avoided campaigning at least after Russia declared war against Ukraine on February 24. He should not have given the impression that for him the polls were more important than the concerns of the whole world and when there was an international crisis. It was more a matter of ethics than anything else. Even in normal times, the PM should not get too much involved in the campaigning for polls.

Historical blunder by CPM

This is with reference to the editorial 'Kerala CPM's tryst with neo-capitalism (March 5). Ideological differences in principles and practices invariably make a party different from the other ones in charector and functions. This is what that made the CPM different from the Congress and that has had a sociological impact in deactivating the feudalistic anarchy prevalent in Kerala in 50's and 60's. Although, the CPM announced its decision to change its idealogy for neo-liberalism, actually it had been in effect long before it. In reality, change is inevitable for all. Nonetheless, it should not be at the cost of its ideology that made the party what it's today.

This is with reference to the news 'Fearing poaching, Congress, AAP may shift newly elected MLAs out of Punjab'. If comfortable majority is a rarity, then people are accustomed to gripping developments among the political parties like travel in a luxury chartered bus to a five-star hotel to insulate MLAs from poaching. People who voted for good governance are forced to watch such scenes with helplessness. It highlights a sorry state of affairs.

Sumy State University students in eastern Ukraine drop plan to walk to Russian border, say embassy warned against their walking plan

ANKITA UPADHYAY @ New Delhi

INDIAN students at the Sumy State University on Saturday released a video where they said that the Indian government and officials will be blamed if anything happens to them and they will move towards the border on their own. However, the students later dropped the plan after calls from the PMO.

The students announced that they are leaving the place and the onus lies on the government if things go wrong with them. In a video released by the students one student is seen saying that if anything happens to the students mission Ganga will be the biggest failure.

"We are the students of Sumy State University, it's the 10th day of war and today Russia has announced ceasefire to open humanitarian corridors for two cities. One of them is Mariupol which is 600 km away from Sumy Since morning we are constantly listening to bombarding, shelling and street fights. We are afraid, we have waited a lot and we cannot wait anymore. We are risking our life, we are moving towards the border. If anything happens to us all the responsibility will be for government and Indian embassy. If anything happens to any one of us, then Mission Ganga will be a biggest failure," the girl stated.

> Either we stay inside or we go out, both are risky. The way people are fighting over here make you think you cannot say what is going to happen in the next moment
> Arindrom Phukon, a student

Another student stated that this is the last video from the Sumi State University students and the students are just risking their lives and they are going towards the border opened by Russia. "This is our last request and last video. Just pray for us. We are moving at own risk," she added. Another student shouted and said "We need our government right now." However, after call from Prime Minister's office the students decided to wait for two more days.

According to Arindrom Phukon, The higher officials called the students and asked not to take any such action and move towards the border. "We got a call from the PMO and Embassy officials who asked us not to take any such step and requested us to wait for two days," he said.

"Our university had told us that they will help us out and asked us to wait for two days so we decided to postpone it. However If they do not evacuate us after two days then we will not wait any further," Arindrom said.

"Today morning we went to the bunker after hearing bomb blasts. We heard a jet flying above us and got panicked and reached the bunker," added Arindrom.

He said the power plant in the city was destroyed and they were getting electricity from generators. "Some people are providing us food," he added.

Have some more patience: Envoy plea to students

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

INDIAN envoy to Ukraine Partha Satpathy on Saturday said no stone will be left unturned for the safe evacuation of Indian students from the conflict-stricken eastern Ukrainian city of Sumy as he hailed the unparalleled strength and fortitude displayed by the young citizens in dealing with the adversities.

Satpathy made the remarks in a message that came hours after the Indian students in Sumy posted videos, saying they have decided to leave for the Russian border and that the Indian government and the embassy in Ukraine will be responsible if anything happens to them. Following the embassy's assurance, the students did not leave the eastern Ukrainian city that has been witnessing intense fighting between Russian and Ukrainian troops.

"The last two weeks have been extremely harrowing and challenging for all of us. Hardly anyone would have ever witnessed such pain and disruption in our lives," Satpathy said. "Nonetheless, I am proud of the maturity and fortitude displayed by our Indian nationals, especially young Indian students, in continuing to stay brave during these difficult times," he said.

His message was posted on Twitter by the Indian embassy in Kyiv. "Our embassy will leave no stone unturned in our efforts to ensure the safe evacuation of Indian students. I know that our students have been through a lot and have shown unparalleled strength and determination during these times," Satpathy said.

"I urge you for some more patience and forbearance so that we can ensure your safety and security," he said.

Meanwhile, Indian Envoy to Ukraine said over 10,000 Indians have been evacuated from Ukraine barring Kharkiv and Sumy. "We will leave no stone unturned in evacuating from Sumy. Wait for some more hours," the envoy said.

'Confused' over MEA advisory on moving out of eastern city, say students

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

SEVERAL Indian students stranded in Sumy who decided to walk to the Russian border amid intense fighting in the region are now "confused" whether to continue their journey after the Ministry of External Affairs urged them to avoid taking unnecessary risks. As evacuation from the shelling-battered city remains a challenge for Indian authorities, the students said they could no longer cope with the nail-biting cold, depleting food supplies and having to melt snow to get drinking water.

Around 700 Indian students are still stuck in the war-hit region, their evacuation hampered by the continuous fighting in the area. The students said they have run out of food and water.

The students have released several desperate videos on social media, saying they have decided to undertake the potentially fatal journey to the Russian border, some 50km from where they are, sending shockwaves in New Delhi.

They said they hope they would be picked up by Indian authorities from the Russians border. "We are afraid. We have awaited a lot and we cannot wait anymore. We are risking our life. We are moving towards the border. If anything happens to us, all the responsibility will be on the government and Indian embassy," a student, surrounded by a large number of his peers holding Indian flags, says in one of the videos.

In another video, students are seen filling up buckets with ice as they ran out of drinking water. This prompted the Indian Ministry of External Affairs to urge them to stay inside shelters and avoid taking unnecessary risks.

"We are deeply concerned about Indian students in Sumy, Ukraine. Have strongly pressed Russian and Ukrainian governments through multiple chanels for an immediate ceasefire to create a safe corridor for our students," MEA Spokesperson Arindam Bagchi said.

After the statement, the group of students have halted their journey for now.

Indian sailors stuck at port

New Delhi: A total of 21 Indian sailors on board a merchant ship are stuck at the Port of Mykolaiv in Ukraine but all of them are 'safe' and in 'regular contact'. According to the agency founder and CEO Sanjay Prashar, Twenty-four other ships are also docked at the port and have Indian sailors onboard. VR Maritime (the agency) is watchful of the developments and keeping all authorities concerned in the loop including the External Affairs Ministry and Director General of Shipping, he said.

PM calls review meet

New Delhi: PM Narendra Modi called another high-level meeting on Saturday evening to discuss the situation in war-hit Ukraine and India's evacuation efforts to bring back its citizens, official sources said. Since Sunday, Modi has chaired a number of such meetings, as his government works to bring back Indian students who have been scrambling to leave Ukraine after Russia launched an attack on it. External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar and his cabinet colleague Piyush Goyal took part.

Maoist, terror links on radar in Bhagalpur case

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

LINKS to any terror or Maoist outfit – in the powerful explosion at an illegal firecracker manufacturing unit at Bhagalpur – will be probed, the Bihar anti-terrorism squad (ATS) has revealed.

A series of bomb blasts in Bhagalpur in the last five months have unnerved top police officers of the state.

Director General of Police (DGP) S K Singhal, who is keeping a close watch on developments in the blast case, said the investigators would also find out the modus operandi of earlier incidents of bomb explosion in the town to ascertain any links with Thursday's incident in which 14 people were killed and 10 others seriously wounded.

At least five incidents of bomb blasts, including three major ones, took place in a span of five days in December last year in which two lives were lost and several injured.

Two other incidents were also reported. Frequent explosions, however, prompted the police to launch a combing operation leading to recovery of 12 bombs, which were subsequently defused.

Thursday's explosion reminded people of a similar incident in Khurshupur in Patna in 2005 which killed 27 people.

India wants talks resumed as China ups defence budget

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

AFTER a standstill in the 14th round of talks in January, India has reportedly sent out a message to China to resume talks over LAC flash points at the earliest.

In the previous round of talks, India reportedly focused on Hot Springs (Patrolling Point 15) as well as an early disengagement of troops in the remaining friction points in eastern Ladakh. There has been a military standoff on Hot Springs area since 2020. Hot Springs (Kyam) is a campsite located at the border checkpost in the Chang Chenno River Valley in Ladakh (near the disputed border with China).

Disengagement happened at Pangong Tso, Galwan and Gogra after previous rounds of talks. However, more than 50,000 troops face each other in some areas since the PLA carried out mass intrusions in May 2020.

Beijing raises military spending by 7.1%

China on Saturday increased its annual defence budget by 7.1% per cent to $230 billion from last year's $209 billion, three times India's military spending. The hike comes amid PLA's aggression in the Indo-Pacific region

Meanwhile, China on Saturday increased its annual defence budget by 7.1% per cent to $230 billion from last year's $209 billion, three times India's military spending. The hike comes amid PLA's aggression in the Indo-Pacific region. Premier Li Keqiang, while presenting the budget proposals in the Chinese parliament, has called for increasing the PLA's comprehensive combat readiness.

This has alerted India, keeping in view that the 14th round of India-China Corps Commander Level talks, held on January 12, didn't yield any positive results, though both sides had agreed to meet again. India had tried to persuade China to disengage from Hot Springs.

Subsequently, the External Affairs Minister, S Jaishankar, during the Quad Foreign Ministers Meet in Melbourne had said that China had violated written agreements by amassing troops.

"The situation at the LAC has arisen due to the disregard by China of agreements with us not to amass forces at the border," Jaishankar said.

Sea drill with Russia, Quad navies concludes

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

INDIA'S biggest maritime exercise, which included warships from the navies of Russia and the Quad countries, concluded on Saturday. The Russia and the US relations are under strain since Russia initiated military operations in Ukraine.

"The sea phase of the eleventh edition of MILAN which witnessed participation of 26 ships, one submarine and 21 aircraft, culminated on March 4," the Indian Navy said.

A source said, "A delegation of Russia, Navy Chief of Australia, Chief of Japanese Maritime Self Defence Force and the Chief of the United States Indo-Pacific Command attended the exercise."

The exercise was significant as, "A series of complex and advanced exercises were undertaken in all three dimensions of Naval operations to enhance compatibility, interoperability, mutual understanding and maritime cooperation amongst the partner Navies." the Indian Navy said in a statement.

The first two days of exercises at sea included complex Anti Air Warfare drills with US P8A aircraft shepherding a strike of Indian fighter aircraft on a formation of warships of the participating navies, the Navy said.

Additionally, weapon firings against low flying air targets were conducted, which reflected the high levels of interoperability. The exercise also "saw an increase in complexity including underway replenishment, advanced anti-submarine exercises with participation by aircraft, surface target firings and simulation of complex operational scenarios."

MILAN Series of Multilateral Naval Exercise, made a modest beginning in the Andaman and Nicobar Islands in 1995 with participation of four littoral navies of Indonesia, Sri Lanka, Singapore and Thailand.

Cyber attacks by Iran hackers on rise

SANA SHAKIL @ New Delhi

WHILE the threat to India's strategic cyber assets by hackers from Pakistan and China is a known phenomenon, of late, in what is being perceived as a new phenomenon by cyber security experts, India's government departments have been facing breaches from hackers in Iran.

According to highly placed sources, in recent weeks several government departments, including defence, banking, state police departments, education, telecom, and private IT companies have come under attack by Iranian hackers. Sources say that most of these attacks have been observed in Kerala, followed by New Delhi. Similar cyber attacks were also observed in states such as Bihar, Assam, West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh, Telangana and Maharashtra.

Sources in the Ministry of Home Affairs say that experts have been roped in to deal with a new wave of ransomware attacks whose sources have been traced back to Iran. A senior official told the New Indian Express that the nature of attacks being faced increasingly from Iran is described in cyber security parlance as 'lock and leak' operations. In these attacks the hackers lock down an online system completely by using ransomware, download the sensitive information from the system, and then blackmail the victims into paying ransom to the hackers, failing which the attackers release the data on the Dark Web.

Last year, in November, Microsoft had released a statement warning countries and private companies across the world of the growing prevalence of Iranian hackers. According to the report released by Microsoft Threat Intelligence Centre and Digital Security Unit, hacker groups based in Iran were increasingly targeting Indian companies in the IT space, along with firms in Israel and the UAE.

RAILWAYS TO AMEND SELECTION PROCESS

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

THE railway ministry is planning to make some amendments in the methodology of Railway Recruitment Board exams, sources in the ministry said even as the high-power committee constituted in the wake of violent protests over alleged irregularities in the examinations submitted its report to the ministry.

Railway officials said they were analysing about 3 lakh representations received by the high power committee from the people and aggrieved unqualified candidates and working to find solutions soon.

The ministry had constituted the committee to look into the concerns following violence, forcing the railways to suspend the NTPC level-II examination. Railway minister Ashwini Vaishnaw, giving a ray of hope to the lakhs of unqualified candidates of NTPC level-I exam, tweeted on Saturday that "the high-power committee got around 3 lakh representations. The committee has analysed them." He said the RRB will notify changes in a few days.

BJP workers die in firing incidents in Imphal valley and Senapati district in the last phase

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

ONE person, believed to be a BJP supporter, was killed in police firing during the second and final phase elections in Manipur on Saturday while another BJP worker died in firing by an alleged Congress worker on Friday night.

An estimated 76.62% of the voters had turned up to exercise franchise.

The incident of police firing occurred at Karong in the hill district of Senapati. The second firing incident was reported from Thoubal district in the Imphal Valley.

Chief Electoral Officer (CEO) Rajesh Agrawal said the polling in entire Imphal valley was peaceful but 12 incidents of damage to EVMs by the miscreants were reported from the hill districts. He said FIRs were registered in connection with all the incidents.

Without sharing the details of the Karong incident, the CEO said: "The incident unfortunately got escalated leading to serious injuries to two persons, who were immediately evacuated by chopper to Imphal for treatment. However, one of them sadly succumbed on the way."

He said the other person was undergoing treatment at the RIMS Hospital in Imphal.

In a complaint lodged with the Returning Officer, one Ngaoni R James, who is an election agent of the local BJP candidate, said "Indian security forces" deployed for election duty had fired at the two persons, K Longvao and V Saope, without giving any proper reason, instruction or warning. "Due to gunshot, K Longvao lost his life. V Saope was severely injured and battling for his life," the complainant wrote. "Therefore, you are requested to take immediate action or else the situation could escalate," he wrote to the RO.

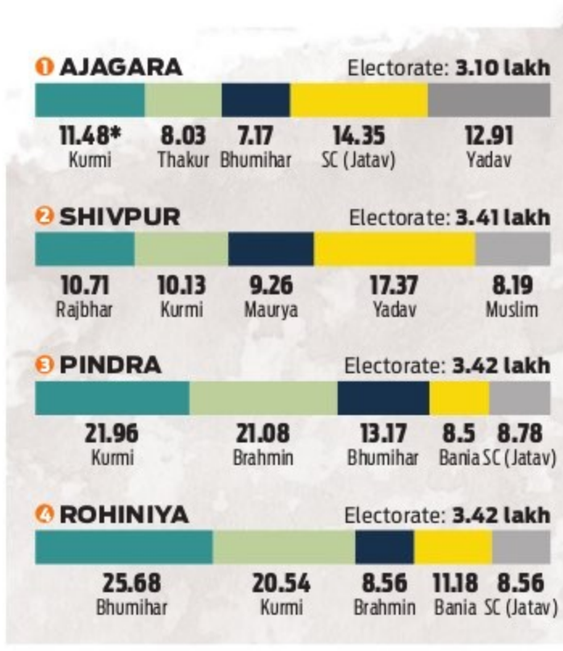
In the Thoubal incident, an alleged Congress worker had fired at a group of BJP workers, leaving some injured. Later, one succumbed to injuries at a hospital.

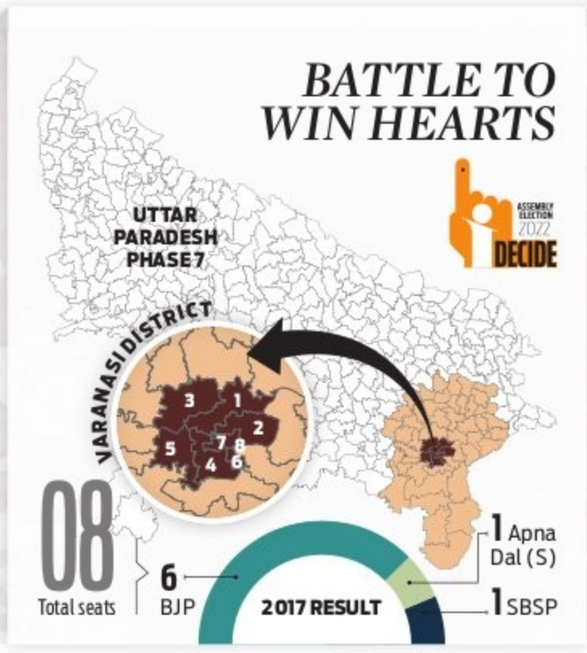
The EC received some complaints from some candidates during polling and the CEO said re-poll, if any, would be decided accordingly.

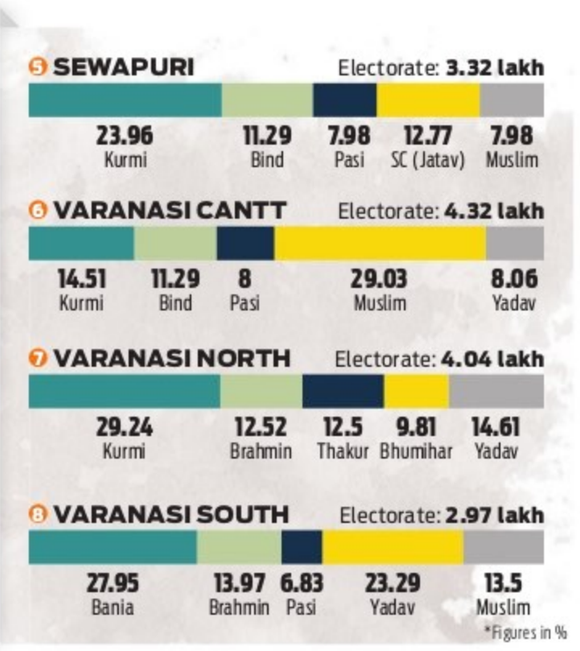
Re-polling was held in 12 polling stations falling under five constituencies in three districts. In 2017, the Congress had emerged as the single largest party by winning 28 of the 60 seats. However, the BJP, which had won 21 seats, managed to form the government by cobbling up the numbers.

Congress to move SC

The Congress will move the SC against the EC decision that the payments by the BJP-led Manipur government to militant groups under Suspension of Operation didn't violate the rules. "It murdered elections in 11 seats!" party leader Jairam Ramesh tweeted







BJP candidates in Kashi find a saviour in Modi

NAMITA BAJPAI/ANURAAG SINGH @ Varanasi

IT'S Subah-e-Banaras... As the nascent sun emerges on the horizon over glittering waves of the Ganga, Varanasi, the city of salvation and now wthe centre of all the political action in UP, gradually comes to life like a painting, depicting the calmness of a winter morning.

Kashi along with eight other districts will celebrate the festival of democracy on Monday, culminating the seven-phase battle for UP.

Varanasi has eight Assembly seats, and retaining all the eight is a prestige issue for the BJP as it is PM Modi's parliamentary constituency.

Sitting MLAs attract ire

The PM camped in the city for two days till the high-octane campaign ended on Saturday evening. He held road shows and delivered speeches to seek another term for the Yogi Adityanath government.

Evidently, the BJP is banking upon Modi's charisma to sail through in Varanasi where the party's sitting MLAs are facing strong anti-incumbency.

In 2017, of the eight Assembly segments comprising three urban — Varanasi Cantt, Vanaransi North and Varanasi South — and five semi-urban — Pindra, Rohiniya, Sevapuri, Shivpur and Ajagara (SC) — BJP had won six and its allies Apna Dal (S) and OP Rajbhar's SBSP one each. Rajbhar is now in alliance with the SP. This time, Apna Dal (S) is contesting on two seats and BJP on six.

Both Akhilesh Yadav and Priyanka Gandhi Vadra have also camped in Varanasi to shore up the prospects of the SP and Congress, respectively.

PM Narendra Modi relishes tea at the famous Pappu Tea Shop in Varanasi | EXPRESS

> The biggest change has come in the form of Kashi Vishwanath Corridor. It was beyond imagination in the middle of a congested city. But Modi has made it mumkin (possible) — Vinay Gupta, businessman

However, Varanasi electorate still sound besotted with the charisma of PM Modi and the works of UP CM Adityanath while directing all the anger towards the sitting MLAs.

"We will only vote for Modi and Yogi. There is no fear now to move around at night. We feel secure," says Rajiv Tiwari readily joined by his wife Kshama: "Modi-Yogi are unmatched," refusing to comment on the leadership of Akhilesh. "It is Har Har Yogi, Ghar Ghar Modi in Varanasi," she says.

On a silent evening by the Ganga, Dharmesh Saini, a boatman, oozes his heart out. Rowing over waves of Ganga for 25 years, he yearns for a CNG version to replace his three-decade old boat which he has taken on rent. A CNG boat for Dharmesh would mean more money in less effort. However, the cost of a CNG boat seems beyond his reach even if he takes a loan. "I can still dream and hope that Yogi*ji* will help me and many like me to own a CNG boat as Varanasi is his boss's constituency," says Dharmesh.

On the other, Dheeraj Saini, another boatman, feels the heat of inflation and price rise but supports Adityanath as he got a boat licence and free CNG. "No previous government helped us like this. Ghats have become cleaner and beautiful to draw tourists who spend hours here," admits Dheeraj.

Vinay Yadav, owner of a garment shop near the Kashi Vishwanath Temple, is an exception in the caste-ridden political arena. He is a BJP office-bearer. Yadav claims Modi's arrival as MP has melted the caste boundaries in the ancient city.

"Sangathan mein jaan phhoonk kar chale gaye (he has rejuvenated the cadre)," Yadav exudes confidence of victory.

The biggest change in the city has come in the form of Kashi Vishwanath Corridor. "It was beyond imagination to have a grand Corridor of Baba Vishwanath in the middle of a congested city. But Modi has made it mumkin (possible)," says Vinay Gupta, a businessman, who claims he was once against the idea of change in the contours of city as it would have changed its flavor. "I was wrong. The essence of the city of Varanasi is intact," he says.

If improvement in law and order is the most perceptible change in Varanasi for Aarti, a research scholar in BHU, Sarvesh Yadav, pursuing post graduation from BHU, says unemployment is the main issue. "BJP government might have done a lot of good things, but it has failed to address unemployment. Competitive exams have become a mockery. Either paper is leaked or results are challenged. I will vote for change," says Sarvesh.

TNIE @ GROUND ZERO

Divided opinion

The anti-incumbency against the sitting MLAs is driving a wedge in the families. While Anjani Nandan Upadhyaya had made up his mind to vote for SP in Varanasi South seat where the sitting MLA and cabinet minister Neelkanth Tiwari is facing a strong challenge by SP candidate and head priest of Mahamritunjay temple, Kamshwar Nath Dixit alias Kishan Dixit, his wife was adamant about voting for Modi. "Modi's road show has made me realise that I can't betray him by voting for SP," says Updhyaya who otherwise was angry with the sitting MLA.

"Change is sure. Even Modi will not be able to stop it. BJP MLAs are seeking apology but people of Kashi have made up their mind to back the SP," says Rajesh Patel, a school teacher.

On the contrary, for a BHU employee seeking anonymity, a change in the government at the Centre in 2014 followed by a change in the state itself has paved the way for better living conditions in Varanasi.

"Ahead of every festival there used to be groups seeking donations better called rangdari (extortion). The police used to behave like an organised mob. We used to look forward to (former SP minister) Shivpal Yadav's visits because that was the only time we would have uninterrupted power," he recalls.

Issues galore

However, as one traverse the semi-urban pockets, the issues of stray cattle, demand for increasing MSPs and procurement centre in villages dominate the discourse but the overriding caste factor rings the most on the ground.

Key seats set for big fights include Varanasi (North) where BJP's two-time MLA Ravindra Jaiswal is in the fray, Varanasi (South) where BJP minister Neelkanth Tiwari is taking on SP's Kameshwar Nath Dikshit in a 'Brahmin vs Brahmin fight', Pindra seat where Congress leader Ajay Rai is seeking election and Shivpur seat where minister Anil Rajbhar is taking on SBSP chief Om Prakash Rajbhar's son Arvind.

The contest in Sewapuri seat is significant as it has three villages — Jayapur, Nagapur and Kakarhia — adopted by PM Modi under the MP Adarsh Gram Yojana. Sewapuri has also been recognised as a "model block" by the NITI Aayog for development, a point that Shukla is raising in the campaign.

Blind opposition to issues and negativity political ideology of dynastic parties: PM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Varanasi

A day after holding the mega roadshow in the urban Assembly segments of his Varanasi parliamentary constituency, Prime Minister Narendra Modi shifted his focus on Saturday, last day of campaigning for the final phase of Uttar Pradesh Assembly election, to the rural and semi-urban seats of the district.

The prime minister addressed a rally at Khajuri village in support of the party candidates contesting from Pindra, Rohaniya, Sewapuri, Ajgara and Shivpur Assembly segments of the district, which houses eight seats, all of which were won by the BJP and its allies in 2017.

In an all out attack on the ghor parivarwadis (the dynast parties), Modi said "blind and continuous opposition on each and every issue, acute frustration and negativity have become their political ideology".

"When some challenges crop up before the nation, these dynasts look for their political interest in it. If India's security forces and people fight a crisis, they (opposition parties) do everything to make the situation more critical. This was seen during the pandemic and is again visible to all during the Ukraine crisis," Modi said.

He also said that the "dynasts" are agitated even by the central government's 'Vocal for Local' campaign.

"The dynasts avoid taking the name of yoga and ayurveda, even when both yoga and ayurveda have gained a lot of prominence in the entire world. The Congress has even forgotten the khadi, which was once its prime identity."

While expressing confidence that the BJP and its allies will win the seven-phase UP polls, the prime minister announced that the campaign to provide pucca houses and gas connections to the poor and to provide employment will be intensified after March 10 (the day elections results are declared).

Cong rally sans Priyanka

VARANASI: The much awaited roadshow by the Congress in two urban Assembly segments Varanasi happened sans party's national general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Saturday. According to Congress party sources in Varanasi, Priyanka couldn't return in time to Varanasi from adjoining Jaunpur, as her roadshow there stretched long owing to huge crowd

Will form majority govt in four states, impressive gains in Punjab, claims Shah

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

UNION Home Minister Amit Shah on the eve of the last leg of polling in five states, including UP, claimed to have won mandates for forming the government in four states with "self-sufficient majority".

"There would be no need for seeking support from any one for forming government in UP and other states wherein the BJP has been in power. In UP, the ground performance and fruitful implementation of development schemes amid highly improved law and order situation have given a resounding assurance of mandate," Shah claimed. Replying to a specific query, Shah said that works being done to evacuate the students from Ukraine under the supervision of PM Modi has positively impacted the BJP.

SHEKHAR YADAV

Speaking about Manipur, Shah said Manipur is going to be the second state in NE after Assam to form a majority government of the saffron party.

"In Goa and Uttarakhand, the BJP will be comfortably forming the government while in Punjab, the BJP has made an encouraging progress on all 65 seats contested with its allies," he claimed.

BJP national president JP Nadda said there was no tough contest in UP in particular as it was being projected.

On being asked what could be the reason if the BJP performed poorly in the first few phases, Shah termed it "untrue". "The BJP has been getting good electoral support right from the first phase and in the last phase also. The BJP is on cloud nine," the Union home minister claimed.

IIT-R, ARIES sign MoU for research collaboration

Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee (IIT-R) has signed an MoU with the Aryabhatta Research Institute of Observational Sciences (ARIES), Nainital, for academic cooperation in areas of mutual interest. University organises workshop on pharma sector

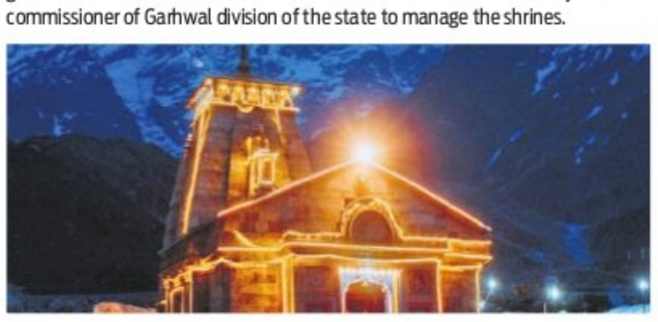
A two-day workshop was organised at Dev Bhoomi Uttarakhand University on Friday with the aim of discussing the changes taking place in the pharmacy sector. Chief guest Dr Mahesh D Burande, director, Institute of Pharmaceutical Education and Research, Pune, said India is on the way to become an economic superpower and the effective contribution of the country's pharma companies will play a major role in it. "When we consider the way India faced the Covid pandemic, the contribution of pharma sector is commendable. And there has been a boom in job opportunities. There is a need to enhance and modernise clinical research, improve quality, innovate and improve upon creativity." On this occasion, students participated in a question-and-answer round as well.

Management of major shrines returns to priests

The management of over 50 temples, including the Char Dham shrines of Kedarnath, Badrinath, Yamunotri and Gangotri, has returned to the priests who had been agitating for more than two years against a legislation passed by the state Assembly. Uttarakhand Governor Lt Gen (retired) Gurmit Singh repealed the Devasthanam Board Act on Sunday. The law was repealed by the Uttarakhand Assembly in December last year. Under the law, the state government had formed a Char Dham Devesthanam Board headed by the commissioner of Garhwal division of the state to manage the shrines.



Border villages to get better mobile network

The Uttarakhand government is planning to step up mobile network in 197 border villages to improve digital connectivity. Sources said that out of the 197 villages, 141 villages will be brought under mobile network by Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited while in the rest of the 56 villages, Reliance Jio will set up necessary infrastructure. Earlier this week, the state IT department authorities, officials from BSNL and the district administration of Pithorgarh district conducted an inspection of border villages. The move comes after mobile and internet services were disrupted for six days straight in the border areas.

Nothing warrants martial law in Russia: Putin

Says will consider any third-party declaration of a no-fly zone over Ukraine as 'participation in armed conflict'

Moscow defends adoption of a law setting out prison sentences for spreading 'fake' information on war

Ukrainians crowd under a destroyed bridge as they try to flee crossing the Irpin river on the outskirts of Kyiv on Saturday | AP

MOSCOW

RUSSIAN President Vladimir Putin said there is nothing that warrants imposing martial law in Russia at this point. Putin's comment on Saturday followed days of speculation that the introduction of martial law could be imminent.

Putin said that "martial law is imposed in a country ... in the event of external aggression, including in specific areas of hostilities. But we don't have such a situation, and I hope we won't."

The Russian President said Moscow would consider any third-party declaration of a no-fly zone over Ukraine as "participation in the armed conflict." Speaking at a meeting with female pilots on Saturday, Putin said Russia would view "any move in this direction" as an intervention that "will pose a threat to our service members."

"That very second, we will view them as participants of the military conflict, and it would not matter what members they are," the Russian president said. He said imposing a no-fly zone would have "colossal and catastrophic consequences not only for Europe but also the whole world". Ukrainian President Volodymyr Zelenskyy has pushed NATO to impose a no-fly zone over his country, warning that "all the people who die from this day forward will also die because of you."NATO has said a no-fly zone, which would bar all unauthorized aircraft from flying over Ukraine, could provoke widespread war in Europe with nuclear-armed Russia.

Meanwhile, Kremlin spokesman Dmitry Peskov has defended Russia's adoption of a law setting out prison sentences of up to 15 years for spreading what is deemed to be fake information about its armed forces.

The measure was signed into law by President Vladimir Putin on Friday and prompted some foreign media including the BBC and Bloomberg to say they were suspending operations within Russia.

Peskov said the measure was justified on the grounds of an "information war which was unleashed against our country." Asked how Russians could express opinions which don't match the official government position, Peskov said "within the bounds of the law." The passing of the law comes amid a broader crackdown on media outlets and social media in Russia. Facebook and Twitter were both blocked Friday in Russia. Agencies

SANCTIONS ARE NOT AN ALTERNATIVE TO A BATTLEFIELD VICTORY

GURBIR SINGH

AMIDST the universal condemnation of Russia's invasion of the Ukraine, and the derisive support for the young President Volodymyr Zelenskyy, is a low key but firm reiteration by the US and NATO countries there will be no boots on the ground; nor will the West get directly involved with air strikes or forcing a no-fly zone over Ukraine. The fear of triggering a world war is real, and the learning from the disastrous war in Afghanistan is too fresh to make the same mistake again.

Instead the course opted for by the western coalition is the imposition of a raft of punishing economic sanctions on Russia. Economic sanctions are not new. But what the world is seeing for the first time is economic retaliation with precision and great coordination. The object is to damage the Russian economy to such a point that it becomes difficult for the Kremlin to conduct the war. Will the Western allies succeed?

Withering Sanctions

The target is the Russian financial system. After a few days of hesitation, Russia's two largest banks, Sberbank and VTB, have been cut off from the world's strongest reserve, the dollar. Russian banks have also been removed from SWIFT, the global messaging and payments system, making it difficult for Russian institutions to process international financial transactions.

The Russian Central Bank too has been hobbled by freezing its overseas assets. After the Crimea annexation in 2014, Russia had tried to shore its financial system by building a huge reserve of $630 billion. However, nearly half of these, parked in paper assets abroad, are now out of bounds. A wide gamut of restrictions too have been imposed. Imports to upgrade Russian oil refineries or spare parts to maintain aircraft are all off the list. Private multinational companies are also working in tandem. Oil behemoth BP has exited its 20% holdings in Russian company Rosneft. Apple, Disney and Ford said they will be pulling back. Boeing has suspended major operations in Moscow.

The sanctions have already begun to impact the man on the street. Russian credit cards are now useless for international payments. Job losses are beginning to mount. Ikea for starters has shut operations in Russia leaving 15,000 Russians jobless.

While the cost of the war will hit those at the bottom of the pyramid the worst, the immediate target is to make Putin, and his immediate circle pay. Vladimir Putin, his foreign minister Sergei Lavrov and Kremlin chief spokesperson Dmitri Peskov are among those whose foreign assets have been frozen. The next layer - the super-rich and the crony capitalists called the oligarchs, those who have made billions based on their proximity with the Kremlin - are also on the hit list.

Some are big names like Alisher Usmanov, founder of Russian mining company Metalloinvest, and the billionaire brothers Boris and Arkady Rotenberg. They are finding their yachts and jets confiscated and their access to the good life in the casinos of Monaco denied to them.

Impact on the street

The sanctions have already begun to impact the man on the street. Russian credit cards are now useless for international payments. Job losses are beginning to mount. Ikea for starters has shut operations in Russia.

7%

Goldman Sachs have cut the investment bank's forecast for Russian gross domestic product this year from 2% growth to a 7% decline.

The war on the ground

The sanctions are biting. Analysts at Goldman Sachs have cut the investment bank's forecast for Russian gross domestic product this year from 2% growth to a 7% decline. The ruble has fallen by over 30% and the country's credit rating has been downgraded to junk status by S&P Global. But can all this stop the war?

History shows sanctions impose pain, but rarely work if the goal is regime change or forcing policy changes. North Korea has faced some of the most stringent sanctions over decades, and the country hasn't given up its nuclear weapons. Russia had earlier faced similar but less stringent sanctions - ban on technology for oil and gas exploration, travel restrictions, etc - after it forcibly annexed the Crimean peninsula in 2014, but Putin rode it out.

The Kremlin has alternatives. China has become a close ally, and the two are keen to work on building alternative financial systems. For instance, though the SWIFT messaging system is closed to Russia now, there is the option of using China's Cross-Border Interbank Payment System, or CIPS.

Two main factors will influence the outcome of the war. First, the extent of dissent at home in Russia. Protests are being violently suppressed and Russians over years have accepted a state of semi-dictatorship. However, war will bring immense hardship - shortages and hyper-inflation as the ruble plummets. Second, Putin's fortunes will depend on the resistance in Ukraine. The cities are likely to fall, but if Ukraine's army and volunteer militia extend the fight with a long, shifting insurgency, Ukraine may become Putin's Waterloo.

One thing is for sure - Europe will never be the same again. A victorious Putin will next go after the Baltic states and push back the borders of Europe. If defeated, it will be regime change in Moscow, which will at best be left a regional satrap. The deciding factor will be how hard and long the Ukrainians are willing to fight.

IT firms 'monitoring' Russia-Ukraine conflict

Analysts say it is too early to access impact of war on IT firms

UMA KANNAN @Bengaluru

IT has been over 10 days now since Russia launched its attack on Ukraine, and uncertainty still reigns over the impact of the war on the global economy, especially among other European countries.

All major Information Technology (IT) companies have a strong presence in Europe. Infosys, which witnessed over 27% growth in Europe in the third quarter of this fiscal, has a presence in Russia, Finland, Latvia and Lithuania. In Ukraine, Wipro has a subsidiary- Wipro IT Services Ukraine.

Many IT companies said they are monitoring the situation. In a response to TNIE, Venu Lambu, Executive Director and President, Global Markets, Mindtree, said that it is too early to talk about the impact of the situation or how it would evolve.

"We do not have a presence in the involved countries and have not seen any impact yet on our operations elsewhere in the region. Our immediate priority is to provide business continuity support to our customers affected by the developments. We will continue to closely monitor the situation," he said.

IT major Tata Consultancy Services (TCS) said that it doesn't have employees or offices in the region. "We are monitoring the current situation with great concern. We do understand that some of our associates have family and friends in Ukraine and we are extending all support to them during this crisis," TCS said.

According to Ukraine's official website, the country employs around two lakh IT professionals, and it has over 4,000 tech companies. It also houses IT companies like Sigma Software, and start-up unicorns such as GitLab and Grammarly have Ukrainian origins.

HCL Technologies (HCL), which has a presence in Poland, Lithuania and Bulgaria, among others, said the safety of its employees is of utmost importance. A spokesperson from HCL said, "While we do not have a presence in Ukraine, we are committed to providing care and assistance to all of our employees and their families and continue to provide ongoing outreach to our people in neighbouring countries. We remain focused on maintaining the highest service delivery levels for our clients, and there has been no impact on client operations." Both Infosys and Wipro did not comment.

Ukraine is top location for offshore

When asked about the impact of the war on IT services, Vijay Sivaram, CEO, Quess IT Staffing, told TNIE that Ukraine is one of the top locations for offshore and near-shore third-party services, particularly for engineering and IT skills.

"Russia's invasion of Ukraine has a significant disruptive impact on American and European companies with service operations in the region," he said. Industry pundits have stated that given the people who were previously employed in GBS (Global Business Service) centres and with third-party service providers in Ukraine, Belarus and Russia, services from nearly 1,00,000 highly qualified IT and technology workers have been disrupted, he said.

Moreover, there are significant concerns about business continuity and data security in the region. As the ongoing tensions in Eastern Europe impact IT service providers in these areas, their investments and benefits could in turn shift to global IT hubs such as India.

Many organisations have been lauded for relocating their staff to safer parts of the country or even to other countries such as Poland, Turkey, and Israel before the war started, to continue uninterrupted service delivery and protect employees, he added.

Many companies such as Apple and Ikea are now exiting Russia. Since economic sanctions have been imposed on Russia, the country's Prime Minister Mikhail Mishustin has said that all IT firms in Russia will be exempt from paying income tax.

According to Statista, 3.75 million legal entities operated in Russia in 2019. The International Trade Administration says Russia's IT market is one of the world's largest and according to International Data Corporation (IDC), the value of the Russian IT market grew 7% to a value of $24.8 billion in 2019. In 2019, over 1.3 million people were employed in the IT sector in Russia.

In an email response to TNIE, Peter Bendor-Samuel, CEO of Everest Group, a research firm said, the resource-pool numbers alone paint a picture of disruption of services because of the war in Ukraine and the economic impact of the sanctions imposed on Russia.

He said there are over 30,000 people working for third-party service providers with clients in banking, retail, automobile and healthcare sectors, and 20,000 estimated people employed in GBS centres in Ukraine. "Services from 70,000 to 100,000 highly qualified workers (especially with digital engineering and IT skills) will be disrupted," he said.

TECH IN EUROPE AMID WAR

HCL Technologies has a presence in Poland, Lithuania & Bulgaria.

Wipro has a subsidiary in Ukraine.

Infosys has a presence in Russia, Finland, Latvia & Lithuania.

Ukraine has over 4,000 tech companies.

Ukraine is a key global delivery location for IT and engineering R&D services.

10,000 people work in GBS centres in Belarus and Russia.

Special CBI court rejects Chitra Ramkrishna's anticipatory bail plea

RAM SAHGAL @Mumbai

A special CBI court rejected the anticipatory bail application of Chitra Ramkrishna, former MD & CEO of NSE, terming the allegations against her in the colocation scam and in a recent Sebi order grave and serious, thereby increasing the possibility of her arrest by CBI, which filed an FIR in the colocation case back in 2018.

While rejecting Ramkrishna's application, the judge pulled up the CBI and Sebi for their conduct toward the accused in the colocation scam. The scam pertains to unknown officials of NSE granting unfair access to certain brokers at its server facilities during 2010-14, which allowed them to benefit hugely by getting exchange data feeds splits of seconds before other brokers.

"Considering the overall facts and circumstances of the case and in view of the grave and serious allegations against the applicant / accused as above, no ground for anticipatory bail is made out at this stage. The same stands dismissed," the court order dated March 5 said.

".....the investigation is at most nascent stage, it has to follow a path towards a journey which has just began, at the same time the conduct of the investigating agency i.e. CBI is most lackadaisical to say the least; as no action seems to have been taken against main beneficiaries of the present co-location scam, (the names of some of whom are mentioned in the RC / FIR of 2018 itself) and others for almost four full years, who seems to be enjoying merrily at the expense of common citizenry for the reasons best known. Further even SEBI despite being capital market watchdog has been too kind and gentle qua the accused persons in the present FIR /RC (sic)," the special judge observed in his order.

Chitra's anticipatory bail application comes in the wake of CBI arresting her former colleague and advisor Anand Subramanian on February 24. He was remanded to police custody in Delhi through March 6.

".....the co-accused Anand Subramanian has already been arrested by the CBI and is on police custody remand, therefore, sustained custodial interrogation of the present applicant would also be required to dig out the truth, as also by confronting her with the said accused," the judge said.

The CBI stepped up its probe after Sebi in an order of February 11 alleged corporate governance lapses, among others, against Chitra and Ravi Narain, former chiefs of NSE and Anand Subramanian.

Sebi in its February 11 order found alleged irregularities in Subramanian's appointment in 2013 apart from Chitra and he sharing confidential information pertaining to NSE with an outsider, described as a Himalayan Yogi by Chitra, over email. The judge observed though Chitra had deep roots in society and did not run away despite the CBI registering its FIR in 2018, she could tamper with evidence.

"...being in pole position in the NSE earlier, there are strong chances that she may influence and temper (sic) with the evidence, as she was joint MD as well as MD & CEO of the National Stock Exchange, the role of which is under investigation under the present co-location scam.

> in view of the grave and serious allegations against the applicant / accused as above, no ground for anticipatory bail is made out at this stage. The same stands dismissed.—Court order

Last dance for Jhulan, Mithali

One of Indian cricket's most iconic duos get ready for battle to attain glory in World Cup

GOMESH S @Chennai

INDIA had just beaten the West Indies with ease at Taunton. It was their second consecutive win of the 2017 World Cup. On their way back to the hotel, Jhulan Goswami walked up to then head coach, Tushar Arothe, in the bus and said: 'Sir, you drop me from the team. I'm not bowling well." A shocked Arothe replied: "What? Are you crazy?"

How else could he have reacted? She had just gone wicketless in her last three matches — a warm-up fixture and the two World Cup ties — but is also the team's best bowler, who had just become the all-time leading wicket-taker in the format.

Trupti Bhattacharya, then team manager, remembers reacting in the same manner when she heard what had happened. "I said, 'I know you are not bowling well, but I will not drop you. If you are willing to work hard, we will work on it, and I'm sure you'll come back stronger," recalls Arothe.

They went back to Derby for the next match against Pakistan as Arothe worked with the pacer on the lengths she needed to hit consistently in England to get wickets. She came back strongly, taking ten scalps in the next seven matches she played in the tournament.

This story isn't an exaggeration. She is this grounded, consistently-learning athlete, who is not afraid to admit she hasn't performed to the standards she had set for herself. She is also a team player, who was happy to sit out if it would help the eleven. Because it is just who Goswami always has been; not just at 34 in the peak of her prowess, but even when she played her first ODI World Cup 17 years ago in South Africa.

Even then, she was the same inquisitive student of the game, who would spend a lot of time picking the brains of New Zealand pacer Nicola Browne and Australian quick Cathryn Fitzpatrick — whom she would surpass in the years to come — despite her struggles to converse fluently in English. Maybe that is why she takes the effort to spend more time with the younger players. And then there is Mithali Raj, the captain. Not just in the ongoing edition, she was also the one to lead them in 2005. In the last few years, almost every time she walks onto the field, she creates a record.

Jadeja the batter takes centrestage

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @Chennai

IN familiar conditions at home, the Indian Test team, especially the batters, are a different beast. They are more confident in their shot selection, never allow pressure to be built up by the bowling side and score at a fast clip. In the last few years, the lower-order, especially when facing opposition spin, has also begun to contribute vital runs. All of this was in evidence against Sri Lanka on Day 2 of a Test that's already slipping away from Sri Lanka. The visitors have lost four wickets and still trail by 466 runs.

The genesis of India's mammoth total was again lower-order runs. If Rishabh Pant's 96 on Day 1 put India in command, Ravindra Jadeja unbeaten 175 made the visitors wave the white flag on Saturday. At one point of time they stopped bothering about picking wickets and were willing the hosts to declare so as to put them out of their misery.

Brief scores: India 1st Innings (overnight 357/6): 574/8 decl. in 129.2 ovs (Jadeja 175 n.o, Pant 96, 61) vs SL 108/4 in 43 ovs (Ashwin 2/21).

The improvement in Jadeja's batting has been well documented but it's improved by so much he can now be considered as a batting all-rounder rather than a bowler who can contribute with the bat.

That improvement can be traced back to the same venue (IS Bindra Stadium) in 2016. Somewhere between that innings against England, where he scored his then highest score (90) and faced the most number of balls in an innings (170) and Saturday, where he repeated those twin feats (175 and 228), the southpaw has developed into a reliable batter capable of performing a variety of batting roles.

The numbers pre-England at Mohali and post-England at Mohali make for contrasting reading. In his first 22 Tests before that outing, he averaged 23.51. Including that England game, he averages 46.88.

Since, Jadeja has third-best average among all Indian batters (minimum 10 games), the seventh highest run-getter (1688), sixth for balls faced (2741), fourth for 50s (15) and second for sixes (40). His improvement has had a profound impact in the way India plan their combinations for home games. It's allowed them to play with just five specialist batters knowing full well the 33-year-old can moonlight as a batter if half the side is in the pavilion for next to nothing.

Neeraj to train in India this month

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

AFTER spending close to three months in Chula Vista, US, Neeraj Chopra has flown back to India. The 23-year-old Olympic champion is expected to reach on Saturday night and stay in India for the next three to four weeks at least. He along with his support staff left for the US in early December.

According to a top Athletics Federation of India (AFI) official, Neeraj has come back to India after completing his scheduled 90-day training in Chula Vista. Though the AFI had initially said he would be training abroad till the World Championships, there seems to be a change in plan right now. Neeraj's coach Klaus Bartonietz and physio Ishaan Marwah are back as well.

With the India Grand Prix 1 and 2 scheduled on March 13 and 23 in Thiruvananthapuram, there is a likelihood that Neeraj might feature in one of the events. But the final call will be taken later. Though the national federation would want him to compete everything depends on the athlete's training and competition schedule. And fitness.

Neeraj would be training in NCOE, Patiala for the time being before going to Antalya in Turkey early next month. "He has come back and will be here until the end of this month," AFI Planning Committee Chairman, Lalit Bhanot, told this newspaper, adding that it's part of his training programme. Bhanot said that he would be travelling to Antalya by the end of this month or early next month. Because of the Omicron outbreak in January, the AFI had earlier thought of continuing his training abroad.

ISL: Bengaluru end season with a narrow win

ENS @Bengaluru

BENGALURU FC ended their ISL campiagn this season with a 1-0 win over East Bengal at the Tilak Maidan Stadium in Goa on Saturday. Sunil Chhetri (24') scored for the Blues, which helped them end with 29 points and finish on sixth place.

The first big chance fell of the contest to East Bengal's Antonio Perosevic, who was one on one with BFC goalkeeper, but Lara Sharma made a solid save with his right hand in the 22nd minute. That proved to be costly as Chhetri managed to score on the other end two minutes later. It gave them the confidence and the Blues nearly doubled the lead, but Udanta Singh's shot found the cross bar.

East Bengal did get their share of chances in the second half to score and equalise, but they failed to find the back of the net.

Karnataka on verge of victory against Puducherry

RANJI TROPHY

ENS @Bengaluru

After a dominant show by Karnataka batters in the first two days, their bowlers came up with an impressive performance against Puducherry on Day 3 of their Ranji Trophy encounter in Chennai on Saturday. They dismissed their opponents for 241 runs in the first innings and imposed a follow on to dominate in the second essay to reduce Puducherry to 62/4 before rain stopped play. The latter still trail by 150 runs. With this solid effort by the bowlers, including Krishnappa Gowtham, who scalped five on the day, Karnataka are gradually marching towards victory.

However, the day was not only about Karnataka bowlers, as Puducherry skipper Rohit D led his team front with a fighting century. But Gowtham was always a huge threat as the spinner chipped in with wickets at regular intervals, helping Karnataka stay on top for most of the day.

Puducherry, who started the day on 52/2, lost an early wicket in the form of opener Neyan Kangayan, which opened the floodgates. They were struggling at 113/6, but Rohit somehow played a good knock to push his team to 240-odd runs.

Besides Gowtham, who troubled Puducherry, Prasidh Krishna and Vidhyadhar Patil also took two wickets each.

The pacers did not take much time to remove the Puducherry openers in the second innings. Patil sent back Aravind K , Prasidh dismissed Kangayan as Puducherry were in trouble with the score reading 24/2. Things did not improve any further as Prasidh took another wicket while leg-spinner Shreyas Gopal also scalped one to reduce them to 47/4, putting Karnataka in the drivers' seat before rain played spoilsport.

India enter World Group I

ENS @Chennai

ROHAN Bopanna and Divij Sharan survived a slugfest to ensure that India advanced to the Davis Cup World Group I with two rubbers to spare. The team management eschewed the possibility of teaming Bopanna with Ramkumar Ramanathan — the duo have already won two World Tour titles in 2022 — to go with a tried and tested partnership. That selection call could have gone so horribly wrong. In the end, they saved three match points to beat Frederik Nielsen and Mikael Torpegaard 6-7 (4), 6-4, 7-6 (4) on Saturday. The win meant that India would compete in their World Group I ties in September. In the inconsequential fourth rubber, Ramkumar further extended the advantage with a nervy 5-7, 7-5, 10-7 win over Johannes Ingildsen. Bopanna credited Sharan for keeping his composure while serving in the third set.
